CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS FOR OPEN SHOP BY HEAVY VOTE

Out of 1500 Ballots, 1436 Are for "American Plan," 46 for Closed Nonunion Shop, 12 for a Closed Union Shop and 6 Are Rejected for Improper Marking.

RESULT ANNOUNCED WITHOUT COMMENT

479 Members Entitled to Vote on Three Propositions Submitted, but as Total Reaches Necessary One-Third, Expression Is Official.

The open shop, or so-called "American plan" of employment, on overwhelming favor in the referendum vote recently taken by the chamber of commerce among its members, the count of which was announced today by Secretary Bunn, who submitted the result without comment.

Of 1500 members voting on the three propositions, 1436 voted in favor of Proposition No. 1, the open shop, which both union and nonunion workers may be employed. Proposition No. 2, the shop closed against union men, received 46 votes, and Proposition No. 3, the union shop, closed against nonunion workers, received 12 votes.

Vote Is Rather Light.
The vote was comparatively light, 479 members were entitled to vote. Exactly 1500 votes were cast, of which were thrown out because of improper marking. Under the laws of the organization, a vote of one-third of the membership is required to give an official expression on any proposition. The vote seeking an expression on the open shop and closed shops was 21 in excess of the required number for an official expression.

The specific propositions as amended in the ballots mailed to all members entitled to vote, are as follows:

No. 1.—Do you approve the open shop, the so-called American plan, in which both classes of workmen, union and nonunion, may be employed and from which no worker may be debarred because he does or does not carry a union card, and in which one worker's chances are as good as another's, dependent upon his skill and industry?

No. 2.—Do you approve the closed nonunion shop in which the owners will employ only nonunion men, thus closing it against union men?

No. 3.—Do you approve the closed union shop, which is closed against the employment of all nonunion men?

Balloting Ordered July 15.
The vote was ordered taken by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce July 15 as a means of ascertaining the sentiment of the members on the foregoing propositions.

Union labor was requested to set forth an argument in defense of the closed union shop for distribution with the ballots, and Percy Peppoon, president of Typographical Union local No. 8, prepared labor's statement. He contended there was no so-called open American plan shop where policy is to negotiate wage rates with the unions which a part of its employees belong, and advocate collective bargaining as the only way to industrial peace.

The Building Trades Council later, explaining its vote, impugned the motives of the Chamber of Commerce in having the referendum, and said that such an expression by the Chamber of Commerce would result in chaos and general industrial disturbance.

The Building Trades Council, Typographical Union and a few other labor organizations hold membership in the Chamber of Commerce.

Committee Prepared Argument.
Argument for the open shop was prepared by a committee of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce. The committee contended that the open shop is original form of labor relations where men found that, in working labor, intellect and spirit, a better living resulted, and that this plan was based on the natural law of supply and demand in industry; that it was the only method through which we could hope to obtain a balanced and equitable distribution of the products of all forms of industry.

IRISH ACCEPT INVITATION TO ANOTHER CONFERENCE

Reply to Lloyd George in Answer to His Last Communication; Recurrence of Disorder in Belfast.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Sept. 1.—The reply of the Irish Republican Cabinet to the latest communication of Prime Minister Lloyd George on the British Government's peace proposals was dispatched last evening to Lloyd George, who is in Scotland on vacation in Belfast.

The reply is being taken to Lloyd George by Robert C. Barton, member of the Irish Republican parliament, who has acted as courier for Eamonn de Valera, the Irish Republican leader, in his other communications to the Prime Minister. It is reported here that the cabinet's reply was redrafted since the outbreak of the rioting in Belfast.

It was authoritatively stated here this afternoon that the reply is an acceptance of the invitation of Lloyd George for a further conference in London. No plenipotentiaries have yet been nominated, however.

Guns Vanish When Soldiers Rush to Scene of Firing.

BELFAST, Sept. 1.—Soldiers were rushed to the Grove street section of Belfast this morning, when several shots were fired in that district. When the troops arrived, however, the guns had vanished. This was the first recurrence of the street fighting since yesterday, when six persons were killed and 30 were injured, many seriously.

Yesterday's casualties bring the total death toll for the three days of rioting to 16. There probably have been 100 persons more or less seriously injured.

TOO MANY THEORISTS, SAYS THE PRESIDENT

That's the Trouble With World Today, He Says at Opening of Army War College.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—President Harding, speaking today at the opening of the fall term of the Army War College, declared that "no matter where the best aspirations of the world lead us, there never may be a time without the necessity for armed forces."

The President in his brief address, however, pledged the 300 officers in his audience that during his administration they would never be called to perform military service "they could not enter into with all their heart and soul as Americans."

Referring to a situation in the West Virginia coal fields, the President declared:

"We ought not to have a conflict like that which is going on in West Virginia. It is due to lack of understanding."

Harding said there were "two real essentials to the civilization to which we all aspire; one is an understanding among men at home and the other and understanding between nations."

The President expressed the belief that the time was coming when the "burden of armament could be diminished."

"I wish with all my heart," he added, "that there will be less of armies and navies."

Declaring that through 4000 years of pagan history and 2000 years of Christian civilization, the world only lately had come to a civilized state of armed warfare, the President reiterated that he thought it "perfectly futile to think there never may be armed conflict."

"We of America without unnecessary boasting," he continued, "have come nearer to civilized warfare than any nation."

The President declared "the trouble with the world today is that there are too many theorists who know nothing of actualities. Whoever, he added, brings practical experience into play with theory will make a real contribution to progress."

The President was accompanied to the war college by Secretary Weeks and Gen. Pershing, chief of staff, each of whom made a brief address.

RED CROSS AND BUREAU FIND JOBS FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

Employment Secured for Some Applicants; Many Are Still Out of Work.

It was stated at the Former Service Men's Employment Bureau today that 44 former service men were placed in jobs yesterday and that early today 15 others had been sent to places of employment.

The Red Cross employment bureau, to which the Chamber of Commerce is sending communications of its members offering employment, placed 20 men yesterday and Tuesday. Eighteen other offers of jobs reached the Chamber of Commerce today.

The number of men on register at the Former Service Men's bureau who still are out of work is approximately 800. The Red Cross has almost an equal number, many of which are duplications of the Tenth and Olive bureau's list.

ONE OF FOUR LARGEST BATTLESHIPS LAUNCHED

Daughter of Congressman Christens the Washington for Her Native State.

By the Associated Press.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 1.—The superdreadnought Washington, one of the four largest and most powerful battleships of the United States Navy, was launched today at the Gloucester plant of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation.

Miss Jean Summers, 10-year-old daughter of Representative J. W. Summers of Walla Walla, broke a bottle of water taken from the rivers of Washington over the prow of the big fighting machine she christened it for her native State.

As the great ship, the sixth in the history of the American navy to bear the name of Washington, glided down the ways at 2:14 p. m., a cloud of initial dip into the waters of the Delaware, river sirens and factory whistles set up a noisy salute.

A distinguished party witnessed the launching, including 25 Congressmen.

The Washington, like her sister ships, the Maryland, the Colorado and the West Virginia, has clipper hulls in marked contrast to the forward-reaching ram bows of the older battleships. The stern is of cruiser type and the extreme top of the overshoot prow is pierced for three hawse pipes or anchors. Her armament will consist of eight 16-inch rifles and 14 5.5-inch guns, and she will have a complement when commissioned of 130 officers and 1281 men.

The new dreadnought will be electrically driven, the plans calling for a speed of 21 knots. She is 624 feet long, 97 feet wide at the water line and has a loaded displacement of 33,590 tons.

SCRAPPIEST BEAR IN FOREST PARK ZOO DROWNS IN HIS BATH

"Rough Neck," for Whom a Fighting Death Was Predicted, Expires Ingloriously.

"Rough Neck," the scrappiest little member of the Black Bear family at the Forest Park Zoo, who was expected to die fighting if he ever died, was ingloriously drowned in his bath between 12 and 1 o'clock today.

"Rough Neck," who was always wrestling with the other bears, was up to his usual tricks, showing off before an audience of children and adults, and after getting warmed up with his pranks he plunged into the tank with the other bears. After a while the others climbed out, but he stayed in, and it was noticed that he was in distress.

The keepers were notified and the tank was quickly drained and approved first aid bear treatment given, but he was found to be dead. In the supposition that he might have been injured, as bears are good swimmers, a post-mortem was performed. It disclosed nothing except the lungs filled with water.

"Rough Neck" was 2½ years old and had been at the Zoo since infancy. He is mourned by seven surviving members of the Black Bear family.

POMERANTZ CHILD FILES SUITS FOR KILLING OF HER PARENTS

Girl Who Witnessed Shooting by Frank Turchinsky Sunday Wants $20,000 Damages.

Sylvia Pomerantz, 7-year-old daughter of Samuel and Sadie Pomerantz, who was an eye-witness to the killing of her father and mother at the home of Nathan Brodman at 1109 Morgan street last Sunday afternoon by Frank Turchinsky, filed two suits this afternoon for damages against Turchinsky, asking $10,000 in each case for the loss of her parents.

The suits were filed in the Circuit Court through Alvin Kerevsky, as next friend of the child. The suits charge that the shooting was "maliciously done and separate damages asked in each case."

Turchinsky, who admitted the shooting, when locked up at the Court street station, said that the bear had arisen over money matters and that he shot the couple because they talked about him and his wife. He is a jeweler with a place of business at 1419 Market street.

TROOPS REFUSE TO FIRE ON FAMISHED RUSSIAN REBELS

Food Supply Exhausted in Tartar Republic—225,000 Children Turned Out to Shift for Themselves.

CO-ORDINATION PLAN NOT CARRIED OUT

U. S. Body Prefers to Work Independently and Allies Deem It Best to Confine Their Efforts to Red Cross.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The famished people in the Russian Governments of Tambov, Voronezh and Orel are rebelling, says a Central News dispatch from Copenhagen quoting Helmsingford's advice. The dispatch adds that troops sent to quell the disturbances have refused to fire upon the people.

American food for starving Russian children is rapidly being unloaded at Riga and Reval. Eleven cars, carrying 15 tons each, left Riga Tuesday night, with facilities for shipping increasing daily.

Each ton of food is sufficient to feed 1000 children for one week. In one of Russia's starving regions, the tartar republic, even the children will receive no food after today, according to announcement published by the Ivestia yesterday.

Twenty-five thousand children maintained by the state institutions will be dismissed, while 200,000, fed under the card rationing system, also have received their last supplies, the announcement said. The monthly reserve of the Tartar Government to the amount of 70 cars of bread, 17 cars of coal and two cars of sugar have been exhausted and no further supplies are in sight.

Prospects for International Co-operation in Relief Diminish.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—After the definite announcement before the Subcommittee on Co-ordination for Russian Relief by Walter L. Brown, European director of the American Relief Administration, that his organization would not submit to any central authority and intended to carry out the work independently, the allied representatives at the session of the International Relief Commission yesterday afternoon made it clear that they thought it best that their respective Governments should confine their relief work in Russia to national organizations, such as the Red Cross. Thus the opinion is held in allied circles that the prospects for international co-operation in aiding the famine-stricken people of Russia are greatly diminished.

The commission decided to send a telegram to Moscow asking permission for a commission of inquiry to enter Russia without restriction, pointing out that the purpose of the body is solely to inquire as to the best and quickest means for giving assistance in the famine area.

The American Government will be formally asked to name a delegate on the commission. But in American circles, it is believed quite unlikely that the United States will be represented.

Brown pointed out that the agreement entered into by Dr. Nansen with Moscow differed radically from the American Relief Administration agreement, inasmuch as it gives to the soviet control of the Hoover organization, control of the Hoover organization, control of the Hoover organization, control of the Hoover organization.

It is known that agents of this organization, the Socialist organization, "under the guise of assisting the masses of Hungary, used its machinery for counter-revolutionary purposes."

Dr. Brumfield Indicted.

ROSENBERG, Ore., Sept. 1.—The grand jury returned an indictment yesterday charging Dr. R. M. Brumfield, alleged slayer of Dennis Russell, with murder in the first degree. He was arraigned and his attorneys took until today to enter a plea.

AUTOS PUT DEAD HORSE CONTRACT ON LOSING BASIS

Rendering Company, Under $25,000 Bond, Asks Abrogation of 20-Year Agreement.

The East St. Louis Rendering Co. is tired of paying for dead horses at current rates. In a letter to Director of Streets and Sewers Flak today, it asked the abrogation of a 20-year contract which it made with the city of St. Louis in June, 1910, under the terms of which it agreed to purchase and dispose of all dead animals and to pay $425 a month for that privilege.

In the letter the company says that the automobile has crowded out the horse to such an extent that the contract is no longer profitable to the company. It says that it disposed of 5000 dead horses for St. Louis in 1910, 4600 in 1911, 4300 in 1912, 2500 in 1913, 1700 in 1920 and 600 in 1921 up to Aug. 15.

BODIES OF ELEVEN MEN TAKEN FROM ILLINOIS MINE

All Were Entombed There Yesterday Afternoon Following Discharge of Dynamite in New Coal Bed.

SEVERAL OTHERS IN THE PIT RESCUED

Casualties Attributed to Escape of Black Damp When Blast Penetrated an Old Walled Room.

By the Associated Press. ILL., Sept. 1.—Eleven dead miners' bodies were brought to the surface of the Harco mine from a depth of 445 feet, and 1000 feet from the mouth of the mine last night. The entire number were entombed yesterday afternoon when a dynamite charge in a new coal bed penetrated an old walled room, providing means of escape of black damp which it is believed killed the miners.

Those rescued and expected to recover are: William Sheeley, William Cole, R. U. Harris, Edward Thomas and two men whose names are not yet known.

Voluntary rescue teams were organized by miners, but their efforts were futile as the black damp drove them back from the section of the mine where the men were entombed. A check of the miners last evening showed that 436 miners had entered the shaft in the morning, and that all but those dead had been returned to the surface. Warnings after the explosion by miners in a nearby shaft probably saved the lives of those who were sent to the surface.

Working Near Old Shaft. The crew of 17 miners were engaged in working a new coal bed near an old shaft which had been walled in, when the drill exploded a charge of dynamite which crushed the old vein walls, and entombed himself and fellow workers, according to reports from the mine.

The dead are: Charles, and Michael Mosco, George Warwick, Herbert Mosco, Hiram Brown, Charles Goodrich, W. J. Lymard, Buckley, John Luther, George Hunter, Herschel Baughn and George Stewart. Seven men who escaped the explosion, but who are suffering from the effect of black damp, were taken to local hospitals. It is believed they will recover.

A special train bearing a United States Mine Bureau car was dispatched to the mine within an hour after the accident and was in charge of D. J. Parker, chief of the Division of Mines Rescue Cars and Stations of the United States Bureau of Mines, who was conducting an inspection trip in this vicinity for H. Foster Bain, director of the United States Bureau of Mines.

An official of the Harco company said he believed that of the approximately 450 men at work all but a few were warned and got out in time. He described the explosion as caused by gas.

Coroner Investigating Disaster. A Coroner's inquest over the bodies of 11 victims will be held this afternoon. Coroner McCormack has been busy with a preliminary investigation. No funeral arrangements for the men have been made and it is unknown whether they will be buried together or interred separately by their families.

The portion of the mine in which the explosion occurred was sealed today. Work will be resumed immediately in the other portions, it was said.

MINERS STILL UNDER ARMS AS HOUR SET FOR DISPERSAL NEARS

Thousands of miners still under arms around Logan.

By the Associated Press. LOGAN, W. Va., Sept. 1.—Approach of noon today found thousands of men still gathered across the Logan County line. At Crooked Creek firing which started yesterday morning continued but reports from other border sections were that quiet prevailed. There was no indication, however, that any of the armed bands had dispersed and border patrols of Deputy Sheriffs, State police and volunteer peace of ficers were on the alert.

Firemen freely was made between midnight and daybreak, that 13 o'clock would find armed bands still gathered on the Boone County side of Spruce Fork River. That hour was designated by President Harding in Tuesday's proclamation as the time limit for the dispersion of all persons engaged in unlawful and insurrectionary proceedings. The alternative being the dispatch of federal troops to the affected district and declaration of martial law in the counties of Kanawha, Wayne, Boone, Logan and Mingo, Charleston, the State capital, is in Kanawha County.

Firing at Crooked Creek. At 6 o'clock this morning, firing burst out at Crooked Creek and additional deputies were being sent in that direction. No shooting was reported from other sections of the Logan-Boone boundary line.

Old St. Louis Revealed in Quest for Centenary Data

Missouri Hotel Found to Be First Establishment of Sort in City 100 Years Ago, Writing Paper Was Scarce and Chickens Were 10 Cents Each

Historical facts about the St. Louis of 100 years ago are being developed by the St. Louis Missouri Centennial Association, in the course of its preparations for the statehood centenary celebration of Oct. 5 to 15.

It has been discovered, for instance, that the Missouri Hotel, which is to be shown on the stage in the drama, "Missouri" at the Coliseum, was the first establishment in this city to be termed a hotel. There were inns and taverns here before, but a hotel was supposed to be something superior to either.

In 1821, the Missouri Hotel, on the southwest corner of Main and Morgan streets, had swinging over the street a sign in the life-size figure of a buffalo, and as part of its accommodation for guests it announced "capacious vaults for the storage of furs and peltry." In this it was competing with the Green Tree Inn, which had been the headquarters of visitors on business before the first "hotel" opened in 1819, just in time to become the political headquarters of the new State of Missouri.

For Trading Chief Business. Business visitors to St. Louis, in 1821, were nearly all in the fur business. Hence, the Buffalo Inn, a new place did not call itself an "inn," because it had the higher design of combining politics and business, as it did when the first session of the Missouri Legislature, which elected Benton and Barton Senators, was held in it. The swinging sign of the buffalo, however, invited all to come in and make themselves at home.

Statehood was not the only matter that interested St. Louis people in 1821. In the last week of August the report reached the town that the Emperor Napoleon was "at the point of death" on the island of St. Helena. In a town largely French, and decidedly anti-British, this was an absorbing piece of news. A similar rumor came from Boston, with the assertion from a passenger on a ship which had touched at St. Helena, that the British were denying all information about the condition of their prisoner.

DECREASE IN RETAIL SALES HERE IN JULY

Federal Reserve Board's Review Shows Decline of 16.5 Per Cent in St. Louis as Compared With Last Year.

CONDITION GENERAL THROUGHOUT NATION

Situation Declared to Be Not Such as to Forecast Immediate Revival on Large Scale.

By the Washington Correspondent. WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Buyers are spending their dollars more carefully than a year ago. The Federal Reserve Board's monthly review of business conditions issued today shows a decrease in department store sales throughout the country during July as compared with July, 1920. In part, the decline is said to have been due to "intensive" buying by shoppers in order to secure maximum values.

The decrease in sales in the St. Louis district amounted to 16.5 per cent.

Owing to the seasonal dullness, there was a noticeable increase in all districts of the percentage of stocks to sales. Outstanding orders, however, increased during the month, indicating that retailers expect a good demand for fall goods. Most of the orders were for medium-priced goods.

Building Continued Dull. Building continued dull during July. Reports from all districts show that construction of moderate-priced dwellings constitutes a large part of the building activity.

The St. Louis district reported that building permits issued in the five principal cities showed a slight increase over the June total, but a decrease of $587,000 from the corresponding period last year.

The employment situation remained practically unchanged, with perhaps a small decrease in the number employed, as compared with June. The decrease in the St. Louis district was estimated at from 6.5 to 10 per cent, due to the lack of demand for workers in the steel and iron building trades. The district showed a surplus of agricultural workers.

Wholesale trade in hardware and boots and shoes showed declines in all reporting districts for July as compared with June.

Leather Prices Maintained. In analyzing the shoe and leather business, the report states that prices of hides and skins increased considerably toward the end of July and were firmly maintained during the first three weeks of August. Leather prices were maintained during August, but remained at approximately the lowest level.

MOUTH WORK Fletcherism advocates chewing all food until it has become thoroughly mingled with the saliva.

And until it is ready to disappear down the throat without an effort at swallowing.

Because the more work the mouth does, the less the stomach will have to do.

Incidentally, this mouth work is made a keen delight by the savory food served at CHILDS.

Luscious, ripe fruits; succulent beef preparations; pure, wholesome dairy products.

GERMAN FIELD MARSHAL IN WAR WHO IS DEAD

FIELD MARSHAL COUNT KARL VON BUELOW.

Was Commander in Chief of the German Second Army During the War.

By the Associated Press. BERLIN, Sept. 1.—Field Marshal Count Karl von Buelow, who was Commander in Chief of the German Second Army during the war, died here yesterday.

Marshal von Buelow, who was 76 years old, was one of Germany's leading commanders during the war. He was raised to the rank of Field Marshal Jan. 27, 1915, on the fifty-sixth anniversary of the Kaiser's birthday.

Marshal von Buelow's name was among the list of Germans whose surrender for trial was demanded by the treaty of Versailles. After his name was published he declared publicly that the Germans whose names were on the list of those whose extradition was demanded by the allies "only did their duty to the Fatherland" and that extradition was an ignominy to which "no German would voluntarily submit."

At that time the Field Marshal declared that he would never place himself at the disposal of the victors, and expressed the belief that most of the commanders named in the list would take a similar view.

He received his commission as Second Lieutenant on the border and went to France as a First Lieutenant in command of John H. Gardella, who was killed in the Argonne Sept. 27, 1918, while attached to H Company, Forty-seventh Infantry, is at Hoboken, N. J., awaiting shipment here. The body is expected next week.

SHAW NOT TO SPEAK IN CHICAGO LABOR DAY

British Author Gives His Reasons for Declining Labor Federation Invitation.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—George Bernard Shaw, British author and playwright, has declined an invitation to address the Chicago Federation of Labor picnic on Labor day.

"I do not think your federation can gather a complete notion of European conditions from any one person," Shaw wrote. "If you could obtain a series of three addresses from Kereksky, Lenin and from a capable Czarist you would learn something about Russia."

"If you could get a similar series from England from Ramsay MacDonald as a representative of the second international and from some equally able advocate of the third international, followed by Winston Churchill as the representative of the British imperialism, and by Sir Donald MacLean as a Liberal non-interventionist (or George Washington) and so on through all the countries of Europe, hearing all sides and especially the side of the existing governing classes, which labor misunderstands and leaves contemptuously out of account until it is suddenly carried away by it into a war, then labor would begin to know its way about in questions of foreign and military policy."

"At present it is so ignorant, and consequently so helpless when a crisis

WHY WHO KNEW WORTHINGTON SAYS HE 'TALKED MONEY'

Miss Carolyn Stites of North King's Highway Tells How Indicted Man Often Conversed "in Millions."

SAYS HE WAS NEVER A LIBERAL SPENDER

Used to Tip Waiters a Quarter and Objected When His Daughter Wanted New Hat or a Dress.

When John W. Worthington, under Federal indictment as the alleged head of a mail theft ring, was arrested in Chicago, Aug. 3, a girl's photograph was found on his desk.
It later was identified as that of Miss Carolyn Stites of 1241 North King's highway. She was questioned by Federal authorities, seeking information concerning Worthington's business transactions in St. Louis.

Miss Stites said she had known Worthington a number of years, and that he had mentioned the names of several wealthy St. Louis businessmen, telling her that he was intimately acquainted with them. These men, when questioned by a Post-Dispatch reporter, denied having ever heard of Worthington until his name was published in recent press dispatches from Chicago relative to the activities of the men under arrest there.

Miss Stites' photograph was identified by Melville Reeves, now at liberty on bond, pending inquiry into his connection with the Chicago prisoners. He told of having met Miss Stites in company with Worthington at a dinner party given several years ago at a St. Louis hotel.
Was Schoolmate of Daughter.

"Mr. Worthington's daughter and I attended school together," Miss Stites said to a Post-Dispatch writer yesterday, "and we remained chums up to the time of her marriage. Her father, after his separation from her mother, visited St.
Louis quite frequently. He told me he was on business trips. He took us automobile riding and entertained us at dinners and theater parties.

"His principal topic of conversation was the 'big deals' that he was interested in. He carried with him a lead pencil on the tablecloth in a hotel dining room when we were at dinner and would say, 'Now, if I swing this deal I will be $50,000 ahead.' He used to rattle off figures to us but I did not understand half what he was saying. He spoke in business terms and he talked about money in millions as though that was nothing.

"He would speak of wealthy St.
Louisans as though they were personal friends, and he mentioned a Federal Judge in Chicago as one of his best friends. He mentioned the names of at least a half dozen St.
Louis business men who are leaders in financial circles here, and gave me the impression that he was transacting business with them almost daily.

Had Removed False Teeth.
It was under the impression that Mr. Worthington was about 55 years old, and was greatly surprised to learn that he had given his age recently as 66. I do recall, however, that once I observed that his lower lip was sunken and when I asked about the change in his facial appearance he told me he had removed his false teeth.

He was no spendthrift. He never tipped a waiter more than a quarter and he used to raise the chickens when his daughter would ask him to buy her a new hat or dress. I have not seen him since 1919. I never met him with any of the business men he claimed to know in St. Louis.

After his marriage to Miss Scanlon in Chicago in 1917, Worthington went to New York and was arrested there in connection with a safe boring. He was convicted and sentenced to five years in Sing Sing.
After serving his time he rejoined his wife in Chicago. A daughter was born of that marriage.

Was Arrested at Vancouver.
In 1918 Worthington was arrested in Vancouver, British Columbia, as a fugitive from justice. He was taken to Chicago to answer a charge of stealing and altering registered Liberty Bonds. He was released on a $10,000 bond, which he jumped. He was recaptured and made to furnish a $25,000 bond, which he did. That one is still pending.

Chief of Detectives Hoagland recalls that in 1916 he was detailed to look for Worthington, in connection with the theft of $14,000 in bonds and jewelry from a safe in the Pittsburg office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. He was not found here, but Boston later received word that he had been intercepted near the Canadian border.

In July, 1919, Worthington applied to Henri Chouteau, president of the International Building Co., for a loan of $12,000. He offered security, Chouteau said, $40,000 in farm loan bonds underwritten by the Federal Reserve Bank. He offered a 10 per cent interest and a reasonable commission. Chouteau told him he was not in the money-lending business and advised him to try one of the banks.

"I do not believe he followed the suggestion," said Chouteau. "At

Army Aviators Plan to Test New Light Barrage

Contrivance Is Composed of Giant Aerial Flares Attached to White Silk Parachute Which Reflects Light.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—New weapons of aerial warfare will be given an initial test when the army air service conducts its next bombing operation—a night attack on the old battleship Alabama. The present plan is to stage the attack about Sept. 15, probably at the scene of the recent tests upon the former German craft, off the Virginia capes.

A "light barrage" composed of giant aerial flares, each of more than 200,000 candlepower, will be one feature of the attack. Army engineers have submitted such enthusiastic reports on this weapon that larger flares, estimated to be equal to 1,000,000 candles, have been placed under construction.

Attached to Parachute.
Giving a greenish-white light, literally "brighter than day," the flares to be used in the Alabama test will illuminate an area of five square miles and expert flyers may should enable the aviators to obtain greater accuracy than in daytime. The flares are attached to a parachute of white silk which reflects the light downward with sufficient intensity, it is believed, to blind the officers and gunners on the ship under attack so as to demoralize any plan for defense, while keeping the upper air reaches shrouded in gloom.

Just before the armistice was signed flares of 2000-candlepower were perfected by the ordnance branch of the army air service. They were equipped with 18-foot para-chutes, which kept them aloft while the magnesium burned for a period of from seven to 11 minutes. No opportunity was afforded for a test of these against the enemy, however.

Although disappointed that they cannot have the Alabama equipped for battle, with radio control, as they had hoped, the army fliers are exerting every effort to conduct the bombing tests with war conditions as near simulated as possible.

Object of Proposed Tests.
It will not be the object of the army pilots to see how quickly they can sink the Alabama, officials said today, but rather to try out special and nondestructible phosphor-ous bombs on her, as well as to ascertain the effect of small demolition bombs. Bombs up to 4000 pounds each may be used.

The Alabama now is at Philadelphia and practically ready for delivery to the air service.

Italy Accepts Invitation to Disarmament Conference.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The Italian Government has formally accepted President Harding's invitation to participate in the Washington conference for international reduction of armament and discussion of Pacific and Far Eastern questions. The acceptance completes the list of nations invited to participate, Great Britain, France, China and Japan already having favorably answered the invitation.

Refusal by Both Bodies.
Both bodies voted against accepting the reductions in wages determined by the builders, which are:
Bricklayers, stonemasons and plasterers, from $11.50 to $12.25 an hour; carpenters, electricians, tinners, plumbers, steamfitters and lathers, from $1.25 to $1 an hour;
painters, from $1 to 90 cents an hour.

The master builders will meet Saturday to determine whether they shall try to resume operations on an open-shop basis. Until a decision is reached on this point, work will cease on buildings involving a total investment of about $350,000. Of these, about $135,000 is represented by public school buildings.

Support From Other Unions.
Eighteen of the 21 members of Master Builders' Association attended the meeting, held in the Arcade Building last night. Unions in the trades that the building crafts, affiliated with the Central Trades, have voted to support the building workers in their attitude.

Christian Buehner, president of

by Police Judge today on a charge of maintaining a nuisance in permitting offensive odors to eman-complaint alleged that he had failed to comply with a Health Department order to abate these odors last

WAGE CUT STOPS ALL BUILDING WORK IN EAST ST. LOUIS

700 Men Made Idle by Deci-

Refused New Scale.

Master Builders Arrange a Meeting to Decide Whether to Resume Operations on That Basis.

About 700 members of the building crafts in East St. Louis were rendered idle today by the decision of the Master Builders' Association, last night, to stop all construction work because of the refusal of the workers to accept wage reductions of 10 to 20 per cent, effective today.

Of the 1500 men in the building trades in East St. Louis, about one-half have been working up to this time. Some are members of the Central Trades and Labor Union, and some are affiliated with the Building Trades Council.

Admits He Drove Auto For MEN WHO ROBBED GIRL OF $500

City detectives have obtained a written confession from Robert Mount, a chauffeur, of 4107 Enright avenue, that he acted as driver for the two men who robbed Josephine Basili, 14 years old, of $500, near her father's saloon, at 4401 Clayton avenue, Tuesday morning.

Mount said he received $156 as his share of the proceeds of the robbery, and that two men, who committed the robbery, received about the same amount each. The remaining $30, he said, was paid to Peter McCartney, that led to the crime. The two men
of the opportunity to rob
the girl. She was carrying the money, in $1 and $5 bills, from the Manchester Bank to her father, James Basili, a cement worker, who had informed cashier workmen's pay checks.

The division was made, Mount said, at a chicken farm on North and South road, to which he drove the two men and McCartney, whom he picked up some distance away after the robbery. McCartney was arrested, and admitted that he knew of the robbery and accepted $30, but denied having given the information that led to the crime. The two men who committed the actual robbery are being sought.

PASSIVE ATTITUDE TOWARD WINES BROUGHT TO CONFERENCE

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Adoption of a passive attitude toward the possible arrival in Washington of beverages of rare vintage along with the delegates to the disarmament conference in November was indicated today by Treasury officials. Delegates to the conference, officials asserted, would probably be accorded the same diplomatic privileges extended duly accredited foreign representatives and in such case there would be no question of their right to import intoxicants.

Many delicate prohibition questions may arise during the conference, it was said, such as the service of wines at functions at places other than on the properties of embassies and legations. But the Government, it was added, could be expected to refrain from embarrassing the conference on this question.

CONFERENCE OF MINE RESCUE MEN OPENS

Morning Session at Hotel and International Meet at Coliseum in Afternoon.

A mine rescue standardization conference opened this forenoon at the Statler Hotel in connection with the International First Aid and Mine Rescue Meet which began this afternoon and will continue tomorrow and Saturday at the Coliseum.

The opening address was delivered by H. Foster Bain, Director of the United States Bureau of Mines, who welcomed the delegates and expressed the wish that the conference would result in standardization of mine rescue work. The forenoon's program included a number of papers and addresses on various phases of rescue work. Each was followed by discussion. At tonight's session there will be more papers and more discussion.

Mine fatalities have been reduced approximately 20 per cent in the last five years by new safety devices and regulations in mines. D. J. Parkes, Chief of Safety Cars and Stations of the United States Bureau of Mines, said at the morning session. Fourteen noon and evening sessions will be held tomorrow.

First aid contests in which 64 teams engaged, took place this afternoon and will be repeated tomorrow afternoon at the Coliseum. Mine rescue contests, in which 16 teams will engage, will take place Saturday afternoon.

Medals will be presented by Bain Friday evening to 12 miners for heroism in saving lives and the prizes to the winners in the contests will be presented by him Saturday evening at the banquet, which will bring the meeting to a close.

The contests are held between 1 and 5 p. m. The chief judges are Dr. A. H. Hamel, president of the Missouri State Medical Association, Dr. R. R. Sayre, chief surgeon, United States Bureau of Mines and Dr.
E. R. Hunter, national director first aid, American Red Cross.

A first aid team from Harrisburg, Ill., came to St. Louis yesterday to enter the contests and shortly after their arrival word came of an explosion of dynamite in the Harris mine, in that district, which released black damp, causing 11 men to lose their lives. They are six members of the team and they say that if they had not come to St. Louis their captain, George Smith, would have been at work in the tunnel in which the men lost their lives. As soon as the news of the disaster was received here the Illinois State rescue team, which had come for the contests, left for Har-riaburg in a special car.

MY LOVE TO THE PRINCE ENTERS ITS SECOND CHAPTER

Ambassador Harvey Expected to Take Granddaughter to Scotland to Meet Prince of Wales.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The ambassadorial idyll, "My love to the Prince," entered on its second edition in yesterday's papers, which published detailed accounts of the elaborate arrangements made by Ambassador Harvey for the reception at Southampton of his 6-year-old granddaughter, Dorothy M. Thompson.

When the Aquitania drew alongside, the first person up the gangplank was the Ambassador, followed by the military attaché of the emba-sy, his private secretary, a footman, chauffeur and maid.

They went, says an account, "to one of the principal state rooms, where the Ambassador knocked and at once entered. There was a shrill cry of delight and the next moment the Ambassador was seen by a throng of curious observers kissing his tiny granddaughter.

"Over his shoulder she suddenly saw the party immediately disengaged herself, smoothed her frock, and assumed an attitude of calm expectation. The Ambassador called in the military attaché and the Secretary gravely presented the party to the little girl, who, standing in the middle of the room, received them with queenly dignity and composure."

Arrived at the country place, which Harvey had rented at Weybridge, cameramen were ready and the Times has printed a large picture of the American Ambassador with his granddaughter on his knee under the caption, "My love to the Prince,"
which has already become quite a catch line in diplomatic and society circles.

In view of the extraordinary publicity into which the whole affair has been thrust, it is expected the Prince of Wales can do no less than make the personal acquaintance of Dorothy at the earliest opportunity. He is at present in Scotland, and there are reports going the rounds that Ambassador Harvey has planned to go north for some golfing before

tion of the proceedings he would ex-abruptly by Attorney Cannon, who announced that he wished a tran-

the earliest possible date and that he desired her to sign it in the presence of the Commissioner.

Mrs. Hogan's estate consisted of

SPEEDY TRIALS CALLED BEST CRIME DETERRENT

Head of Chicago Commission Says Swiftess Counts for More Than Severity of Punishment.

By the Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—The history of organized government demonstrates that the speedy trial of criminal cases and the swift and certain punishment of criminals effects a reduction in the volume of crime. Edwin W. Sims, president of the Chicago Crime Commission, told the American Bar Association at its meeting here.

"On the other hand," Sims continued, "increased crime follows closely on the heels of delayed trials and deferred punishment. In short, crime increases or decreases in the proportion that punishment is swift and certain. The speed with which a crime is punished has a great deal more to do with the preservation of law and order than the severity of punishment."

"Criminal laws bear close analogy to natural laws. A child puts its hand in the fire but once. One experience is sufficient. It is not necessary that the injury be severe."

"Existing criminal laws in America are the evolution of centuries of practical experience. As they have been developed they are invaluable. There are those, however, who attack the theory of punishment and who, contending that crime is a disease, recommend and urge that punishment be abolished and some other form of treatment substituted. It is a grave mistake to in any way interfere with, impede or hamper the enforcement of existing laws which have been centuries in development, at least until the experiment has been thoroughly tested and found to be practical."

"Three years ago the Chicago Association of Commerce appointed and financed a crime commission. It does not of itself undertake the apprehension nor the prosecution of criminals. The commission limits its activity to an investigation of crimes of violence, murder, burglary and robbery. It early reached the conclusion that crime flourished because criminals escaped punishment, and that the principal avenue of escape was the delay in the trial of criminal cases."

Organized in 1919.
"The commission was organized in the year 1919. Data collected for that year showed there were 110 murders to one million of population in Chicago as against nine to the million in Great Britain and 13 to the million in Canada. This meant that during the year 1919 there were more murders in Chicago, with a population of 2,000,000 than in the British Isles with a population of 40,000,000."

"For years in Great Britain and Canada, murder cases have been generally disposed of within 60 or 90 days. In American cities there are practically no murder cases being tried within 90 days."

"On April 1, 1920, 135 persons previously indicted for murder were awaiting trial in Chicago. In 194 cases the accused were at liberty on bond. The situation was brought to the attention of the courts and officials of the Crime Commission with the result that four judges then in the Civil Courts volunteered to sit in the Criminal Court and try cases until the murder docket was cleared. The trial of these cases resulted in the sentencing of 12 to hang and 12 to the penitentiary for from one year to life."

Effect on Crime Electrical.
The effect on the number of murders in Chicago was electrical. Immediately the murder rate there dropped 61 per cent, where it has since remained. The record for the first seven months of each of the last three years is as follows:

"In compiling its report on continuances, the Chicago Crime Commission ran across a case, and in December, 1919, eight and one-half years after the crime, was committed, the defendant was placed on trial. The evidence seemed to be convincing, and the case was ably presented by the Prosecuting Attorney, notwithstanding which the jury returned a verdict of 'not guilty.'"

"The jurors, in explaining how they came to reach that verdict in the face of the evidence presented, stated that they felt there was some reason which was being withheld from them for the nearly nine-year delay, and that under such peculiar circumstances they concluded to return a verdict of 'not guilty.'"

Postoffice Department Announces Steps Taken Several Months Ago
Are Bringing Results.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Reduction in mail robberies due to the arming of postal employees was reported yesterday by the Postoffice Department.

"The arming of line clerks, transfer clerks and registry terminal clerks to guard the mails has greatly reduced the number of hold-ups," a department said. "Rifle ranges and police galleries are being used all over the country for target practice."

INQUIRY IN REVENUE BUREAU

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Deputy Internal Revenue Commissioner Matson left last night for a visit to the Indianapolis and Chicago offices of the bureau. Matson has been conducting the investigation here into charges of irregularity on the part of employees of the Revenue Bureau, and is understood to be visiting the field offices on similar matters.

SCIENCE, ART AND LAW
AGREE ON PARENTAGE

Man Declared Father of Child, but Mother Retains Its Custody.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Science, art and the law are one in declaring Julius B. Sorine the father of the third child of his divorced wife. The mother maintained she should know better than science who was the father. Then art was called into the case by Judge Thomas F. Graham. Sculptor Haig Patigen by sketches worked out a facial expression test like that used in the famous Slingby case in England. Patigen reported to the court the child resembled Sorine. Yesterday the law spoke through Judge Graham: "Irrespective of these tests, which are very interesting and instructive, the law determines the question very clearly. The youngest child was born during the lawful wedlock of the parties, and there is legal presumption that the boy is their legitimate child."

Though Mrs. Sorine lost her contention the child was not Sorine's the court ruled the child should remain in her care. Sorine was proved the father, but lost the child. He had brought suit for its custody.

You will find this an unusually satisfactory collection from which to select the important All-Wool Fall Skirt that proves such a true friend for sports, business and general street wear as cooler days approach.

These Skirts have never been shown before—all show the very newest plaids, save a few smartly striped models.

They are made of all-wool prunella, gabardine, serge and velour, in combinations of Autumn shades that are especially pleasing. Plaided in tailored or stitched-down effects. If bought in the regular way they would be marked from $8.95 to $16.50.

Its story finishes—with a fine peau de cygne lining.

ZOE AKINS' NEW PLAY GLOOMILY EMOTIONAL

Marjorie Rambeau Appears in "Daddy's Gone a-Hunting,"
by St. Louis Author.

By Leased Wire From the New York
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The reaction that an overdose of the artistic life may sometimes raise, even in the best ordered Harlem flats, is the theme of the newest play by Zoe Akina, St. Louis playwright, "Daddy's Gone a-Hunting." Arthur Hopkins made its production last night the first of the season at the Plymouth Theater. It was an event that had been awaited with no little interest, especially by the public that admires this manager's highly individualized methods in behalf of the theater's art.

Hopkins had taken every precaution to put Miss Akina's play favorably before its first audience. He had cast Marjorie Rambeau for the heroine role, which, it was surmised at once, must be lugubrious. The settings were designed by Robert Edmonds Jones, which was sufficient assurance that they would harmonize exactly with the drama's atmosphere and feeling. The remainder of the company was all that could be wished, and the stage direction, which has been the secret of the downfall of so many plays this season, in this case was intelligent and thorough.

The outcome of the evening's experiment, therefore, depended solely upon Miss Akina herself. At the end of the first of the three acts it seemed as if the groundwork had been laid for a moving, even absorbing play. Julian Fields had returned to his tremulously expectant wife and his happy child after some time spent in the studios of Paris. An admiring woman benefactor had made possible his year's pursuit of art away from home. But he came back wholly changed in nature and ideals, and accompanied by two weird cronies who were in cordial sympathy with his new outlook upon life. Freedom, which recognized no domestic obligation, was now his one desire. The dumb distress and wounded pride of the loyal wife, as she listened to his declarations and noted his indifference, brought an end to a human and moving scene.

Lapses Into Monotony.
But Miss Akina, as in "Deceit," failed completely to make use of the advantage she had gained. After its first act, "Daddy's Gone a-Hunting," lapsed steadily in its interest and dramatic force. It soon reached a dead level of dull monotony and remained there. The gloom in which it was saturated became trying to the patience. The author's invention failed her, and she followed in the beaten path of many playwrights who have gone before her.

For a time Edith Fields tried to live with her artist husband in a Greenwich Village studio. He was an artist only by courtesy, for he showed the utmost aversion to work of any sort. However, his insistence upon freedom of action had led to his too constant association with his benefactress, whose whims he turned to the divorce courts. When he conceded to his neglected wife the same latitude of conduct, she left him in disgust and went to live with the man who up to that time had honorably loved her.

Even the death of their child did not quite bring the estranged couple together again. There were some gushingly sentimental scenes, all keyed to the lowest possible pitch, and the end came with a faint suggestion that the wife still had a warm spot in her heart for the man she must, by any normal instincts, have loathed.

Oh! For a Smile.

All this became pretty maudlin stuff as the play dragged on, and Miss Akina provided no compensations. A cheerful word spoken by any of the characters would have been as lightning out of a clear sky. Of course it did not come. But Miss Rambeau revealed in the gloom of the character she portrayed. She knows all the tricks of emotional acting. She is especially an adept at that trick of dumb, wondering silence while her wide open eyes speak volumes of eloquent feeling. She used all her tricks with excellent effect. Some of the scenes she played throbbled with emotionalism. A little finer shading would much improve her acting, although in this instance Miss Akina gave her few opportunities.

Lee Baker gave an ingratiating performance as the friend, Frank Conroy brought out all the attributes of the husband, and they were not endearing. Monart Kippen and Olga Olenova were the eccentric pair that the artist had picked up in Paris. The child was especially well acted by Frances Victory. She was 100 per cent normal, which was a relief in an evening that swung wide from normalcy.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH CLERGYMEN UNDERPAID, MINISTER SAYS

Texas Asserts They Receive From Third to Half Less Than Unskilled Skilled Workers.

By the Associated Press.
WINONA LAKE, Ind., Sept. 1.—The clergyman of the Christian Church deserves better pay than he is getting, and the community and the church must accord to permit him to continue underpaid, the Rev. H. R. Ford, pastor of the First Christian Church at Houston, Tex., told the international convention of the Church of the Disciples of Christ (Christian Church) here yesterday.

Quoting statistics, he said that 84 per cent of the clergymen in the United States are receiving from a third to a half less than unskilled steel workers, who receive "the entirely inadequate wage of $1468 a year."

PROPERTY OF LATE "QUEEN LI" BRINGS LITTLE AT AUCTION

Possessions of Former Hawaiian Monarch Realize Trifling Sums in Sale.

Honolulu, T. H., Sept. 1.—Fast fading under the ravages of time, the dimming memories of the old Hawaiian monarchy—once so splendid—were being swept rapidly into oblivion by many agencies.

One particularly disastrous day to the vestiges of the old dynasty witnessed many possessions of the late Queen Liliuokalani, last of the native monarchs, pass under the auctioneer's hammer recently and the spectacular destruction by fire that night of the historic Anahulu palace, once the residence of princes of the royal blood and also famed as the haunt of Robert Louis Stevenson during his stay in the Hawaiian Islands.

The bathtub of "Queen Li" brought $37.50. A large bowl of native design was sold to an iron mob-er. A tall, spindly shaving stand was sold for 10 cents to a Chinese. Furniture of Koia or Hawaiian mahogany, including wardrobes exemplifying high skill in cabinet making, marble-top washstands, hat stands and a piano brought from less than 50 cents to $150.

The Queen's icebox sold for $15. A large book of views of the city of Sydney, inscribed as "a gift to Her Majesty, Queen Liliuokalani, from the Government of New South Wales," and presented just before the fall of the monarchy in 1892, returned $5.50. Many pictures, autographed and sent to the late Queen by actors and actresses famous 20 years ago, brought varying small sums.

Scarcely three hours after the auction of "Queen Li's" possessions was completed, it was discovered that the Anahulu palace was still standing. The frame building, the rendezvous of society during the Kalakaua reign, later served as a hotel for noted guests.

The passage of many of Queen Liliuokalani's possessions to private owners and the destruction of the Anahulu palace leave few remembrances of the Hawaiian monarchy.

TRUNK LINE OF BARGES TO MOBILE RECOMMENDED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—A. W. Mackie, a special investigator of the War Department, has recommended to Secretary Weeks that the Warrior service be operated as a trunk line.

to Mobile. The suggestion was made in a report recently laid before the Secretary on the whole Warrior River operation. Mackie said that with the proposed change he believed the line could be made to pay a profit to the Government. Secretary Weeks said yesterday that he had read the report and found it "not very critical" action had yet been taken on its "cal" of conditions on the line. No suggestions for improvement, he said.

Agreement for District of Kovno to Be Independent and for Vilna to Be Supervised by Poles.

By the Associated Press. GENEVA, Sept. 1.—The dispute between Poland and Lithuania regarding Vilna was settled by the representatives of the two countries here this morning. They agreed that there should be two Lithuanian, one the District of Kovno, which shall be independent, and the other Vilna, in which the Poles will supervise the administration.

SOCIALIST COMMENT ON THE DELAY OF ACTION IN DEBS CASE

Reasons Given for Deferring Matter Declared to Be Not in Accord With Facts.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—In a statement issued today commenting on President Harding's failure to act on an application for a pardon for Eugene Debs until after the peace treaty with Germany is ratified, the Socialist National Executive Committee, which is meeting here, declares "we decline to accept the latest reason given for delay for it is not in accord with the known facts." The statement refers to the release of many convicted German spies, some of whom "were convicted of placing bombs on ships sailing for European ports," and denounces the American Legion.

100,000 GERMAN WORKERS HOLD REPUBLICAN MASS MEETING

Crowds, Gathered in Demonstration Over Erzberger's Death, Cry "Down With Hindenburg."

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—The demonstration of 100,000 workmen, which was staged yesterday because of the murder of Matthias Erzberger, was taken in hand by the Government and turned into a Republican mass meeting. Factories add organized labor, which sent regular formations to the Lustgarten in front of the former palace of the Hohenzollerns, showing strong support of the Government, and the crowds dispersed without incident. The Lustgarten was filled with red banners and transparencies with such legends as "Down with the reactionary assassins! Long live the Republic!" "Down with the Hindenburg-Ludendorff clique!" There were few black, red and gold banners, but the spirit of the occasion was not as red as the banners.

ACCIDENT VERDICT IN DEATHS OF THREE AT GRADE CROSSING

Engineer on Train Says Machine Backed Off Track and Then Drove on Again.

A verdict of accident was returned at the inquest today into the death of Mrs. Mary Craig, Mrs. Lucy Keaton and William Bousman, 12 years old, all of Granite City, who were struck by a Wabash train while in Mrs. Craig's automobile, at the twentieth street crossing in Granite City, yesterday morning.

E. O. Shively of Deatur, the engineer, testified that he was running one minute ahead of time. He said the machine was first driven on the track and then backed off, and when the engine was within 50 feet of the crossing it was again driven on the track.

They Must Learn Thrift

September, and school books come off the shelf and go into action. 1921, demanding more than other years, prescribes an additional course. Schools deal in futures, and Thrift makes successful futures. Therefore, the textbook of Thrift, the Savings Pass Book, takes its logical place with the three R's.

Children must learn Thrift, and this is the time to start teaching them that deposits made on or before the fifth of any month draw interest from the FIRST of that month.

TWO MEN HOLD UP UNION PACIFIC TRAIN

Only Men on Los Angeles Limited Searched by Daylight Robbers Near Ogden.

By the Associated Press.
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 1.—The Los Angeles Limited, number seven of the Union Pacific System, was held up by two masked and armed robbers shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, near Clearfield, nine miles south of Ogden, while on the way from Ogden to Salt Lake. All the male passengers were robbed.

The train was stopped by an automatic block signal. The two robbers boarded the train and commanded everyone in the observation car to hold up their hands. While one gathered loot in the observation car the other proceeded to the other cars. The exact amount taken is not known.

After a few minutes' delay the robbers signaled to Robert Hayes, the conductor, to have the train started. Nearing the outskirts of Salt Lake City, the robbers pulled the cord, brought the train to a standstill and escaped in the northern part of the city.

One passenger in the observation car rather than hold up his hands, jumped from the train. As he was fleeing one of the bandits shot at him.

The women and children on the train were not molested. While the train was speeding here one passenger scribbled a note and threw it out of the window. It was notification that the train had been held up. A railroad employee picked it up and telephoned to headquarters here. A posse was immediately organized, but by the time it reached the train the robbers had departed.

MERCHANT MARINE FALLING SHORT OF SHARE OF FREIGHT

Federal Reserve Board Says American Ships Carry Only Little Over Third of Our Goods.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The country's merchant marine is falling far short of receiving its share of American ocean freight, according to the Federal Reserve Board's survey of the "shipping situation during August, made public today. American ships," the board said, "continued to carry but little more than one-third of our imports and exports measured in terms of value. This proportion is far below what would be expected of a fleet as large as that belonging to this country."

Latest figures, the board declared, showed the United States with a fleet of 17,026,002 gross tons out of a world total of 61,974,652 tons, was slightly surpassed by Great Britain with a fleet of 19,571,554 tons, while France stood third with 3,652,249 tons. Japan, Italy, Norway and Holland, the board added, followed in the order named, with merchant marine fleets ranging from about 3,350,000 tons down to about 2,225,000.

RENT DECISION FAVORS
NEW YORK LANDLORDS

Ten Per Cent on Market Value Plus Operating Costs Held to Be Reasonable.

Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Landlords won a triple victory yesterday when Supreme Court Justices Cropper, Kelby and Lazansky, sitting in the appellate term in Brooklyn, decided:
That the reasonable rent of housing property is a 10 per cent return on the market value, plus the operating costs.

That landlords may include in their operating expenses for the year the legal expenses necessary to maintaining their right of possession.
That certain expenses, as new sections for a steam boiler, awnings, window shades and a new floor or roof, were properly charged when they were put down as current repairs, instead of being charged so as to distribute their cost over the tenant over a number of years.

This completely upsets the practice of the Mayor's Committee of Rent Profiteering and rulings of some Municipal Court justices.
The ruling sustained a decision of the Municipal Court in an action brought by Esther Hirsch, a Brooklyn owner, against 34 of her tenants to "recover increases."

Hitherto it has been the contention of tenants that the landlord was legally entitled only to a 10 per cent return on the equity he has in the property, after figuring in as "costs" the interest on his mortgages. On this basis the Mayor's committee has adjusted about 4000 cases, and it is claimed by them their practice has been in accord with that of nine out of ten of the Municipal Court Justices.

A meeting of the committee will be called immediately to determine what action will be taken in participating in the appeal from the ruling which is certain to be made to the appellate division. Every tenant's organization in the city has an interest in seeing that an appeal is brought about at the earliest possible date.

Here are the rules laid down by the Appellate division of the Supreme Court, second district, for determining what is "just and reasonable rent":

1. Determine the present fair market value of the premises. This may be done by offering opinion evidence as to both fee and rental value, or by introducing other competent evidence.
2. Determine the gross rentals demanded by the landlord.
3. Determine the allowable operating expense for the past year.
These ordinarily consist of payments for taxes, water rates, insurance, janitor's services, necessary legal expenses to landlord incidental to maintaining his right of possession, and necessary expenses actually paid
for collecting rents; also payments for necessary supplies incidental to the use of the premises. Allowance should also be made for loss of rents through vacancies or through tenants failing to pay. Allowance for annual depreciation should be made upon the fair market value of the buildings.
4. Deduct from the gross rentals the operating expenses and this will give the net rental.
5. If this net rental does not exceed 10 per cent of the present value of the property, then the rent demanded is not unreasonable.

DISABLED CANADIAN STEAMER
REPORTED FOUND IN PACIFIC

Vessel Thought to Have Foundered Being Towed to Port by Another Ship.

MONTREAL, Sept. 1.—The Canadian Importer, believed to have foundered in the Pacific Ocean, has been found by the Canadian Observer, which is towing her to the nearest port, the Government merchant marine office was advised today.

Word received here stated that the Canadian Importer had been found at 10:30 o'clock last night in latitude 32° 20' north, longitude 137° 25' west, about 500 miles west of San Francisco.

The message stated that a crew of 44 had been found on the Importer, but no mention was made of a boat-load of nine men which was believed to have left the steamer.

The Canadian Importer, a Government-owned freighter, disappeared Aug. 26. For days the North Pacific Ocean was searched without word of the missing craft. As heavy seas had been running it was feared she had foundered, and that the crew had been unable to get away in boats.

FRENCH MARRIAGES DOUBLE

PARIS, Aug. 14.—The number of marriages in France has doubled, the number of births increased, and while fewer deaths are registered in 1920 than in 1913, the last full year of peace. This is shown by the official figures just published by the Ministry of Labor. The excess of births over deaths in 1920 was 129,- 790, as compared to 58,914 in 1913.
The marriages totaled 622,869 in 1920, against 312,036 in 1913.

The significance of these figures is increased when it is remembered that the total population of France has decreased sensibly as a result of the war.

Kentucky Dove Hunting Season.
FRANKFORT, Ky.—The dove hunting season in Kentucky opened on Sept. 1 and will last until Dec.
14. A bag of 15 in one day is the limit.

WE CAN FINE MAN ONLY $500 IN LIQUOR CASE

English Tells Former Brewery Traffic Has Demoralized Students.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Judge English, in assessing the fine against Hirschfeld, said he regretted that the law made that amount the limit for the first offense under the Volstead act. He said he had information that Hirschfeld was regularly engaged in bringing contraband liquor into Chicago and that most of the bootlegging in the university town was transacted through the business maintained by Hirschfeld. He said that such traffic had quarts of liquor, at the Illinois Central depot, and said that he was employed by Hirschfeld to get the trunks. The trunks had been shipped from Chicago to Champaign. Judge English, in assessing the fine against Hirschfeld, said he regretted that the law made that amount the limit for the first offense under the Volstead act. He said he had information that Hirschfeld was regularly engaged in bringing contraband liquor into Chicago and that most of the bootlegging in the university town was transacted through the business maintained by Hirschfeld. He said that such traffic had caused the University of Illinois to lose many students and many appropriations, because of the temptations which are placed before the students there. Hirschfeld paid the fine. $1000 Fire in Battery A Stables. Thirty-two horses and 12 mules, part of the equipment of Battery A, were rescued at 4 p. m. yesterday, when fire started in the concrete stables back of the drill armory, 1221 South Grand avenue. Members of the battery, police and citizens took part in the rescue work. The cause of the fire was not determined. The loss was estimated at $1000.

(Modes of Today)
It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delatone handy you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To guard against disappointment, be careful to get real delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

MAN ON PAROLE MUST FACE FORGERY CHARGE

F. Harry Quick, Released by Gov. Hyde, Will Be Prosecuted in Indianapolis.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 1.—F. Harry Quick, confessed robber from St. Louis and recipient of Gov. Hyde's first "clemency parole," will have to face a charge of forgery in Indianapolis before being turned over to Missouri authorities to serve out the remainder of his five-year term in the State penitentiary here, the penitentiary officials were notified last night.

Quick pleaded guilty in St. Louis in 1919 to robbery in the first degree, having been interrupted by two policemen while holding up a saloon. Quick's record in the penitentiary indicates that he previously had served a term in a reformatory at Jeffersonville, Ind.

Hyde paroled Quick at the urgent request of Gov. McCray and United States Senator New of Indiana, although clemency in this case was not recommended by either the prosecutor or sentencing judge. First notice of Quick's recent offense came a telegram from Owen J. Conrad of Indianapolis, to whom the convict had been paroled, and who wired that the terms of the release had been violated; that Quick had been drinking and is now in jail in Indianapolis on a forgery charge. Conrad recommended that he be returned to the Missouri penitentiary to serve out his sentence.

A formal recommendation that Hyde revoke Quick's parole will be filed in the Governor's office today by the Commissioners of Penal Institutions, who had intended to send for Quick immediately, until notified by the Chief of Police of Indianapolis that the Indiana charge will be pressed.

Grocer Robbed by Two Negroes.

Two negroes, one with an automatic pistol, entered the grocery store of John Robie, 2900 Easton avenue, at 8 p. m. yesterday and ordered Robie and a customer to throw up their hands. One covered the pair while the second negro took $4 from the cash register and both ran out.

LIVESTOCK SURVEY FOR STATE ISSUED

3,005,000 Head of Cattle, 907,000 Horses and 414,000 Mules in Missouri.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 1.—There are 3,005,000 head of cattle, 907,000 horses, 414,000 mules, 3,967,000 hogs and 1,518,000 sheep on Missouri farms at the present time, according to the second quarterly livestock survey issued by E. A. Logan and Jewell Mayes of the United States and State Departments of Agriculture. There are 218,000 cattle, 132,000 hogs and 142,000 sheep being fed for market at the present time, according to the survey, all classes of which show a decrease over the number at the close of the first quarter.

The number of cattle on Missouri farms has increased 423,000 since April, the number at that time being 2,582,000. The increase included 257,000 calves and 44,000 cattle that were moved to the farms from other sources. During the quarter 210,000 head of cattle were sold off of the farms, 3000 were slaughtered and 23,000 died, leaving the total at 3,005,000 at the close of the period.

Of the total number of cattle, 1,283,000 are cows over 1 year old, according to the report, while 422,000 are strictly dairy cattle, according to farmers' estimates. There are 491,000 heifers over 1 year old and 21 per cent of these are of dairy stock. Approximately 25,000 of the 218,000 cattle on feed for market were calves, 65,000 yearlings and 125,000 were 2-year-olds and over. The total number on feed for market at the close of the quarter was 17 per cent less than the number at the close of the last quarter.

Cattle feeders show much indecision as to whether they will feed cattle this fall, according to the report, most of them having sustained losses on the cattle fed during the summer. Indications are that there will be a decrease in numbers fed for market purposes this fall.

The number of hogs on Missouri farms has increased 93,000 during the quarter, according to the report. Of this number 770,000 were pigs born during the period and 118,000 were moved to the farms; 1,420,000 hogs were sold off the farms during the three months, although all of this number did not go on the market for slaughter. Approximately 5000 hogs were slaughtered on the farms and 226,000 died. The death rate during the quarter was 50 head per 1000, which is 17 per cent less than the death rate last quarter. Hogs on feed for market at the present time number 793,000.

Sheep on Missouri farms show an increase of 54,000 during the last quarter, the increase being caused by the lamb crop of 232,000.

Report on Darkened Street Lamps.
Policemen must be more alert in notifying the City Lighting Department of darkened street lamps on their beats. Chief O'Brien said the Lighting Department had complained of the infrequency of notifications from the police of the failure of street lights, and they want more efficient service. The chief says that street lights help keep down crime, and should be repaired at once when out of order.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be strongly independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

First Free American Prisoners.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I would like to ask how many more European countries, besides Russia, are using the United States for a free lunch counter while they keep our American citizens in prison? This thing of using us for a free eating house and general fairy godmother, financially, while they laugh at us for being so easy, is getting to be a nuisance, and I hope the Post-Dispatch and the American Legion posts of St. Louis will get after the State Department so strongly that something will be done immediately to put a stop to it. I say, let them inspect their jails and prisons and release our Americans if they expect another penny from us.

I am an American of the tenth generation. I had lost an only brother in this last World War. Now, I do not consider that my family is obliged to make further sacrifices for any part of Europe, while they still imprison our fellow Americans for political or other reasons. Fellow Americans, let us rise now and demand that this foolishness be stopped at once.

During Revolutionary days, when my ancestors fought at Valley Forge, Brandywine, Long Island and Bunker Hill, with Gen. Washington and Marquis de Lafayette, there was a popular saying, "Millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute." Now let us say: "Millions for starving women and children of Europe, but not a penny until our American brothers and sisters are released from their prisons!"

"JUSTICE."

And They Talk About Women.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

While shopping the other day I saw a handsome young man with cheeks rouged and eyes made up like a chorus girl's, display men's fashions to a very interested crowd of seemingly sensible people, who looked on without a smile. I wonder if in that admiring throng there were not the critics of the women's clothes whose wives are probably not of the age or size to wear the present day styles in a becoming manner?

Why not "live and let live"? If the men want waist lines and other attributes supposed to belong to the young ladies, why not allow the "weaker sex" the privilege of wearing what pleases them? ICY.

The Recent Treaty.

The treaty of peace with Germany has been revealed and we find that the intellectuals who supported the league with or without reservations have made an abject surrender to the provincials who are now as advanced as the Chinese were a generation ago, that is, they regard their neighbors as "foreign devils," unworthy of association or trust. We discover now that this treaty demands all the privileges conferred by the Versailles treaty but disclaims all its responsibilities.

Consider what this means. The American public leaders trampled under their feet in scorn the Wilson treaty of Versailles; now they come forward and demand that they have full share in all its carefully studied provisions that confer benefits. That is the main point with them. They adopt the despised treaty so far as it confers benefits. They do not shrink from stealing the fruit of the labor of Wilson and the other members of the peace council at Paris. But while they steal it they double the dishonor of their action by refusing the responsibilities assumed by all the other signatory powers, for its enforcement. There is their deed in all its naked ugliness. As long as these men were content with displaying their own dishonor they did not need to mind, but when they dishonor their own country before the world they deserve to be dragged from office and exiled into everlasting obscurity and shame.

T. R. JOHNSON.

Harding and Wilson.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am one of hundreds—yes, I may be safe in saying thousands—of others who are of the same opinion as the one who signs himself "Fifty-Fifty," regarding Mr. Woodrow Wilson, our beloved former President, who gave up his health and his all for the love he had for America. I, like Fifty-Fifty, cannot see what Mr. Harding is doing but cruising on the Mayflower.

MRS. O. P. MILTEN.

They Also Served.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WANT all the demonstration for the unemployed ex-service men, and none for the unemployed who were just as essential as any man who wore a uniform? The majority of the service men were single men who have just themselves to look after. There are thousands of us whose duty it was to prepare and thousands more who were required to handle properly and accurately through train yards not only the equipment but also the men themselves. Why is it that there is never a word mentioned in their behalf? It is a terrible circumstance when a man has to be armed with an army discharge paper before he can be employed so that he may feed his little ones.

A HUNGRY FAMILY.

OUR UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM.

There are 75,000 persons out of employment in St. Louis, according to the superintendent of the local Free Employment Bureau. During the past week several agencies, stirred to action by the parade of the unemployed ex-service men, have found places for a number of applicants. Helpful as such efforts are they do not touch the problem, which can be solved only by a revival of industry.

Is such an industrial revival immediately possible? An affirmative answer may conditionally be found in the statement made by Festus J. Wade at Washington that a $15,000,000 construction program is ready to be instituted in St. Louis as soon as the capital and labor of the building industry can adjust their differences.

Why can't those differences be adjusted? Who is blocking the adjustment? Is it capital or labor? Wherever the fault is it behooves capital and labor to find out. If the present representatives of those two interests cannot or will not reach an agreement, the apparently sensible and necessary thing to do is to depose them and appoint representatives who will reach an agreement.

Consider what a $15,000,000 building program would mean to the 75,000 unemployed people of St. Louis. Approximately two-thirds of the amount would go to labor directly engaged in building trades. At a wage of $10 a day it would mean the employment of 5000 men every day from now till the first of next March, Sundays included. Its effect, of course, would not be confined to the building trades. It would extend into many lines of industry, providing work for many thousands. It would act as a tonic upon the city's entire industrial body.

The Post-Dispatch is informed, moreover, that Mr. Wade's estimate is conservative, that a building program aggregating $30,000,000 will be launched as soon as capital and labor reach an agreement, with the result that our unemployment problem would largely be solved.

Whether the withdrawal of the bricklayers, the stone and marble masons and the tile layers from affiliation with the Building Trades Council is to be followed by further withdrawals remains to be seen. Their complaint, however, that they have frequently been involved in strikes and idleness for remote and trivial causes is a serious one. The power of ordering men to quit work is not to be exercised lightly. Yet a far graver responsibility has been assumed, in part at least, by the Building Trades Council, namely, the responsibility of keeping thousands of men out of work who need work.

It may be, as some labor leaders charge, that the forces of capitalism have conspired to crush organized labor. If so, their conspiracy is as futile as it is unworthy. Organized labor is not going to be crushed by the forces of capitalism, but organized labor may well be afraid of any leadership of its own that condemns to idleness men who might be employed at good wages.

When walking your beat, look out for a Commissioner coming in the other direction.

Solicitor-General Beck says aversion to work is the greatest present evil. Has he seen the crowds around the employment offices?

A RIGHTOUS JUDGMENT.

No reasonable person would criticize the Police Board for discharging the patrolman who engaged in revolver practice, with a citizen's wooden leg as the target. Regardless of the necessity for improving marksmanship in the department, and notwithstanding the argument that the officer was merely indulging in a playful mood, we stoutly maintain that the verdict is a proper one, and that the charge—that of "unbecoming conduct"—was exceedingly mild, in view of the circumstances. Certainly it would not be successfully contended that it is "becoming" in a policeman to shoot up a man's leg, even if it is a wooden one.

If it were conceded that the inanimate quality of the prop was sufficient defense for opening upon it with artillery, where would the majority of us be? If the cork leg, why not the glass eye? Or the porcelain teeth? Or even the furtive toupee? Would life, already little more than a painful pilgrimage to the tomb, be at all endurable if the aids which we bring to our congenial and accidental infirmities were to be enfiladed at sight by the gendarmes? No, indeed.

POISONOUS FUNGUS.

(From the Newark News.)

deed! The board has done well to stop the thing at the wooden-leg stage. If the police must practice, let them try their hardware against the burglars.

GEN. OBREGON'S GREAT VICTORY.

The finest victory Gen. Obregon has won on any field was that of Wednesday, when the Mexican Supreme Court held Article 27 of the Mexican Constitution not to be retroactive.

Gen. Obregon has repeatedly assured Americans with interests in Mexico that this is the construction put upon that article. He has given this assurance to our State Department. After our refusal either to accept his assurance or recognize his Government, it must afford him some satisfaction to have his word made good by the highest tribunal in his country.

The decision leaves us in the position of having distrusted the other side's umpire, who nevertheless awards us the game by a score of 9 to 0. Let us hope that while our old men are in the Mexican capital they will avail themselves of an opportunity to apologize to Gen. Obregon.

Nor is there any reason why we should longer withhold our confidence and assistance from both the Mexican Government and the Mexican people. By the decision which upholds the title of the Texas Oil Co. to Mexican lands it is said that a precedent is established in fully 150 similar cases. The meaning of this is that land legally acquired in Mexico prior to 1917 is not to be confiscated.

Gen. Obregon has always said that his Government had no intention of confiscating these lands. He predicted that the Supreme Court of Mexico would so hold, and it did.

What further assurance do we require of the integrity and fairness of the Obregon Government, and how much longer can we refuse to recognize it after having had our fears so brought to naught?

Even when they want a republic in Germany they march for it in military formation.

When the contemplated tax reductions are made the only remaining reminder of war-time conditions will be the 7-cent street car fare.

SOCIETY AND THE LAW.

The eminent gentlemen of the American Bar Association in convention assembled yield to the usual inclination to look elsewhere than within themselves for the provocations of this world's naughtiness. Attorney-General Daugherty feels moved to preach a sermon on popular disrespect of the law. James M. Beck, by condemning the salient tendencies of the times, seems engaged, as are some radicals who find no good in anybody, in the trial and conviction of human nature.

Human nature of late years has had a good deal to contend with and not much to restrain it from the indulgence of a bad temper. It has had to contend, among other things, with lawyers and even Judges that seemed more devoted to private ends than to justice. It has had to contend with a life of industrial routine which suppressed individuality in working hours and failed to afford it the means or incentive of cultivating a higher life after working hours. What wonder that work loses its attraction when there is no reward of work but a bare existence?

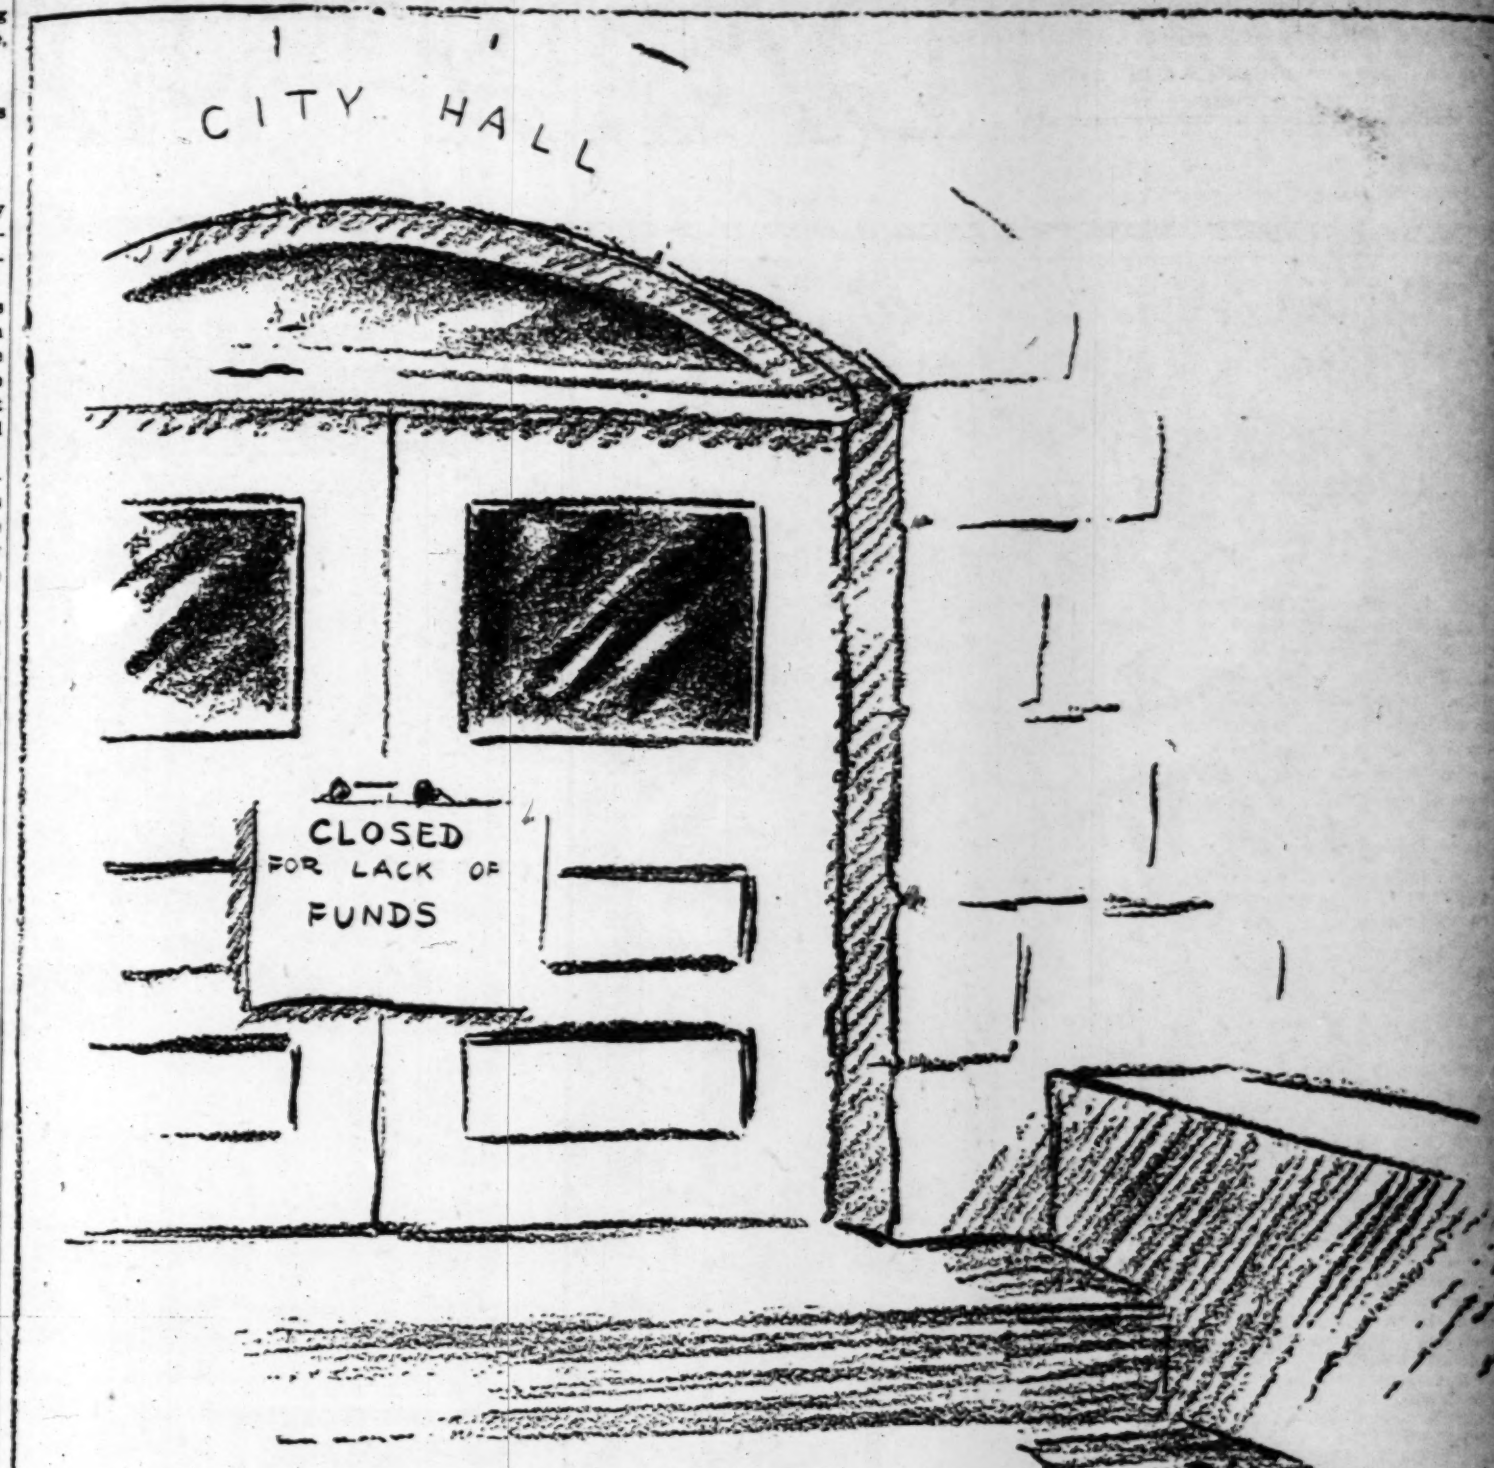

The new generation differs from its predecessors chiefly in that it has freed itself of the old bugaboos of conventionality and superstitious fear. With its new courage constructively directed its future is not without hope. To aid in its evolution through the faithful administration of legal justice there is no element in our society in more powerful position than the members of the American Bar Association.

Now Germany has no enemies except those who would tell her that she might find victory in another war.

Government investigators have peeped behind the screen and they think they have found a film trust.

It would seem that nations are like individuals. It is always the other fellow that needs reforming.

An enterprising retailer could chop up one of those $2100 wooden ships and turn it into about $6000 worth of kindling wood.

SOCRATES AND HIS PUPILS.

SOCRATES: This ought to be a good day to observe a very interesting and encouraging phenomenon.

Glaucou: What is it, Socrates?

Socrates: Well, it seems that after our terrible experience of the past few years as a consequence of hotheadedness we are capable of doing what we have never had very much discussion.

Glaucou: Ailsa, no!

Socrates: We have all felt quite able to take care of ourselves without exercising the least restraint, and nobody has cared to seem afraid of anyone else in case the worst came to the worst.

Polemarchus: We have been more interested in exhibiting bravado than common sense. Socrates: Just so. When we examine the history of the late war we find that rather than seem afraid of anyone else everybody went farther than anyone had really dreamed of going.

Glaucou: You seem to think the consequences of that are proving salutary.

Socrates: Yes. There is a much greater disposition to discuss things than I have ever seen, and I do not believe it has ever been equalled in history. There is apparently a widespread feeling that discussion can dissolve most of the obstacles in the way of amity among us.

Thrasymachus: Maybe it is just as well that everybody is bankrupt and cannot do any fighting.

Socrates: Like as not. At any rate, we are able to discuss the Irish question and the Silesian question. We are to have a big disarmament discussion, Japan is discussing Yap with us, and most of us have things we think would better be talked over a bit.

Polemarchus: That is a good sign, truly. Socrates: Isn't it, though? It is the most encouraging thing I have observed in a long time. We seem to have suddenly acquired a good reason for the things we have been without.

Glaucou: What exactly has been the cause?

Socrates: I have been thinking of that. From the time of the Old Testament we have had a theory the very opposite of which is expressed by the saying that thrice armed is he whose cause is just. We experienced an awakening in the last war. As far as we could make out exactly the reverse of what we thought is true. Instead of being evil, most of the people on earth are good. Very well. The world has begun to reason from that point. If most of the people on earth are good, why not settle our points of difference by discussion?

Thrasymachus: Why not?

Socrates: A phenomenon, indeed! Glaucou: You may well say so. We are the first men who ever saw it. Now let us walk around town and see if we can see a sewer collapse.

One of our correspondents thinks we should at this time avail ourselves of the psychological value of saying that business is good whether it is or not. He wants us to lead this assurance, and asks us to contemplate the value of having belief follow assertion. We would like to make business good, but we are afraid our correspondent is not practicable. There are economic fundamentals not to be swept away by the mere assertion that all is well. This world in which we live is a mad world, and it has just exhausted itself physically, morally and economically with a great war. Saying the thirty-odd millions of people who died in that war are alive is not going to revive them, and saying business has not been knocked into a cocked hat by the economic upset is going to do no good whatever. Our correspondent's motive is good, but his suggestion is not worth a whoop outdoors. Business is not good. It will be good again, but not until we shall have paid for the folly of destroying more value than we could spare. If business did not require time in which to recover the moral of the war would be lost upon us. Business is what we have made it, and what we can make it again. We need to consider whether we care to repeat that folly.

Sir: Commenting editorially yesterday the Post-Dispatch observes that rail workers are as sure to lose their cause in case of walkout as were the German junkers of 1914. A few columns removed just a Minute states that with the July cost of living showing an advance of 2-1 per cent, rail workers' votes will be influenced by the August returns not yet in. Rail workers are themselves a part of the great class whom the first writer would protect and are all of that class for whom the second shows a regard which only such a philosopher as he may. Realizing the enormity of the issues involved and understanding thoroughly the probable consequence, the writer could suggest nothing better than that the entire question be submitted to Messrs. W. G. Harding, Woodrow Wilson and Henry Ford, the majority finding to be binding. This would insure at the outset a positive and negative vote in Messrs. Harding and Ford, with the final decision resting with the greatest humanitarian who ever lived. And the question at issue being one of humanity either way it is considered, rail workers who voted largely to put the ex-President in the hole would now gladly place their future in his hands.

Sherwood Anderson, a Chicago novelist who has just returned from a trip to Europe, says he found quite a colony of Americans in Paris who were called "the lost generation." He did not get the impression that they are as happy as one should be upon having found an oasis in the desert, and one can understand that easily enough. To exaggerate the importance of one thing destroys one's relish for all things. Imagine one leaving the country to get booze, as if booze were indispensable!

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapermen and periodicals on the questions of the day.

THE UP-TO-DATE FARMER.

From the New York Herald.

IF the Markhams of the future are impelled to break out in lyric lamentation over the physical exertions of the farmer, it will be of the Man with the Monkey-wrench instead of the Man with the Hoe that they will sing. The back-breaking phase of farming is passing. On the larger farms it has already passed. Even on the smaller farms it is rapidly going. Like the old-fashioned farmer, the up-to-date farmer must have some knowledge of plumbing; he must have some knowledge of electricity; he must have the mechanical training to know why water pumps, electric lighting plants and gasoline engines get out of gear, and he must have the skill and the tools to apply the remedies. He must be his own plumber, his own electrician and his own all-around mechanic. In other words, perhaps in the future instead of a farmer he will call himself a farm engineer.

THE HOME.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

UNQUESTIONABLY home is the safest place for most of us most of the time when not earning the means to maintain it. Possibly the most important of all things is such direction of thought and effort as shall make us prefer home to any other place, because as we are constructed we are prone to spend our time where we get most comfort. This idea was very forcefully brought out by speakers at the luncheon of the furniture dealers in the better home which the furniture men have evolved for themselves. It was, of course, not indelicately suggested that the best home was where the best furniture was, for that was a gathering of business men desiring to do business. And unquestionably that particular cult does do a great deal toward increasing the comforts of home. But even at that gathering the suggestion did not stop with the attraction there, especially present in their minds. Back of it all was the thought that is among the most abiding of all thoughts—the home of our childhood, with the mother love never failing; the home of our youth, less beautiful, possibly, than our fond recollection paints it, but the place around which centered the joys of life's spring time; the home of our manhood, with the wife's greeting always awaiting us; the home of declining years where we find comfort and repose. Home is where the heart is and it is well that that hallowed place shall be embellished by whatever the architect, the designer and the hands which love flowers can contribute to its beauty, even as a man's home has always decorated its holiest places.

HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

EDMUND LESTER PEARSON in the Weekly Review.

HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD died recently at her home on Deer Island in the Merrimack River. She was already known as a brilliant young author when our fathers and mothers were young; Whittier had written poems to her; her epigrams were familiar to all of us; her reputation for wit rested on no mere tradition, but on present fact. What a charming she was, how delightful she was at the age of 18 and beyond! She attracted the attention of James Russell Lowell in 1859; half a century and more later she was a frail, delicate, but infinitely sympathetic figure, with more fire and vivacity, more sparkling humor and gaiety than could be found in any girl's school or college in the land. It would be worth while joining all the poetry societies, if one young poetess could be found in them as amusing, as adroit, as gay, as radiant, as level-headed, and vital as fascinating as the little woman in black, whom her intimates called "Hal" Spofford when she was past 90!

HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

EDMUND LESTER PEARSON in the Weekly Review.

HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD died recently at her home on Deer Island in the Merrimack River. She was already known as a brilliant young author when our fathers and mothers were young; Whittier had written poems to her; her epigrams were familiar to all of us; her reputation for wit rested on no mere tradition, but on present fact. What a charming she was, how delightful she was at the age of 18 and beyond! She attracted the attention of James Russell Lowell in 1859; half a century and more later she was a frail, delicate, but infinitely sympathetic figure, with more fire and vivacity, more sparkling humor and gaiety than could be found in any girl's school or college in the land. It would be worth while joining all the poetry societies, if one young poetess could be found in them as amusing, as adroit, as gay, as radiant, as level-headed, and vital as fascinating as the little woman in black, whom her intimates called "Hal" Spofford when she was past 90!

S. CANNOT DEMAND IMMEDIATE PAYMENT OF LOANS MADE TO ALLIES

Terms of the Various Bond Acts Passed by Congress Make Collections Impossible for at Least 17 to 26 Years.

By Special Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—A. Maurice Low, Washington correspondent of the London Morning Post, contributes the following to the New York World and Post-Dispatch:

When an American Senator from his place in the Senate tells that he believes that the United States is the creditor of the world has it in its power to bring about disarmament by saying to the debtor nations "You must either disarm or pay up," when some of the most important newspapers in the United States say practically the same thing; and when some advance the argument that "the United States will utilize its dominant economic and financial position in the world today, including its whip hand power as a creditor nation, to enforce a successful issue" at the forthcoming Washington conference, then it is quite evident that neither Senator, nor newspaper, nor writer have taken the trouble to read the terms of the laws under which the American Government made loans to its allies to help prosecute the war.

Cantor, however, compels me to say that English ignorance is equalled by as great. Members of the House of Commons, financiers and the press show the same unfamiliarity with a very simple subject. This is surprising. Usually the creditor is shrewd enough to know when and how he must pay.

"Whip Hand" is mythical. This "whip hand" is mythical. The impression prevails on both sides of the Atlantic that it is in the power of the United States at any time to demand the payment of the debt, and that England and other nations must either meet that demand—which would be physically impossible because, among other things, repayment can be demanded in gold—or suffer the humiliation of being declared defaulters. Without a violation of the contract, which, of course, need not for a moment be entertained—the United States cannot make any preposterous demand for payment. So that there need be no further misunderstanding, I give a condensed history of the legislation authorizing the loans. It is simple enough not to be above the intelligence of the average high school boy.

The first Liberty loan act, approved by the President April 24, 1917, gave the Secretary of the Treasury authority "to purchase at par, from such foreign Governments then engaged in war with the United States, and their colonies or other possessions hereafter issued, bearing the same rate of interest and containing in their essentials the same terms and conditions as those of the United States issued under the authority of this act." The act further provided that in case the United States subsequently issued bonds bearing a higher rate of interest than 3 1/2 per cent, the rate at which the first Liberty bonds were issued, the bonds of the foreign Government should bear a correspondingly increased rate of interest. The Secretary of the Treasury was given power to determine the life of the Liberty Bonds; he fixed the maturity date at June 17, 1947, the Treasury having the option to redeem the issue in whole or part at any time after June 15, 1927.

How Loans Were Made. For the convenience of both creditor and debtor, as none of the allied Governments had bonds prepared that would meet the necessities of the case, the allied Ambassadors, as the agents of their Governments, gave to the Treasury certificates of indebtedness which were virtually the notes of hand. It was the understanding that when the war was over, or at some other suitable time, these notes should be exchanged for definite bonds which, like the Liberty bonds, were to mature in 1947, but might be optionally redeemed by the borrowing Government in whole or in part after 1932.

In September, 1917, the second Liberty loan act was passed. It reenacted the provision of the first act relating to loans to foreign Governments, amplifying the language in regard to the rate of interest but not less than the highest rate of interest borne by any bonds of the United States then last issued under the authority of this act; and also empowered the Secretary to sell these obligations and use the proceeds for the purchase of any bonds of the United States issued under the authority of this act; or any other interest-bearing obligations of the United States. The American bonds issued under this act were, similar to the first issue, to mature in 1942, but were redeemable at the option of the Government on and after Nov. 15, 1927.

In April, 1918, the third Liberty loan act was passed, which merely, so far as foreign credits were concerned, increased the sum available to $5,500,000,000. The fourth loan act was passed in July, 1918. It also was silent in regard to foreign loans except to increase the amount available to $7,000,000,000.

Final Loan Legislation. The final loan legislation of the war was the Liberty loan act of March 3, 1919. It contains this important provision:

"Section 8. That the obligations of foreign Governments, acquired by the Secretary of the Treasury by virtue of the provisions of the first Liberty bond act and the second Liberty bond act, and amendments and supplements thereto, shall mature at such dates as shall be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury; Provided, that such obligations acquired by virtue of the provisions of the first Liberty bond act, or through the conversion of short time obligations acquired under such act, shall mature not later than June 15, 1947, and all other such obligations of foreign Governments shall mature not later than Oct. 15, 1938."

These acts authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to grant total credits of $10,000,000,000. He established credits of $9,710,525,310.56, and advanced in cash the sum of $9,580,823,677.18. This, for the sake of convenience, is popularly known as the $10,000,000,000 debt of the allies to the United States. In addition, after the armistice, the United States sold to some of the governments surplus war supplies, for which the United States received obligations of those governments. This, however, is a separate transaction and does not enter into the discussion of the $10,000,000,000 debt.

From the foregoing it will be clearly seen that the United States cannot make any demands on the foreign Governments for the immediate payment of the sums borrowed during the war; that the foreign Governments are required, under the terms of the various loan acts, which is the essence of the contract, to deliver to the Secretary of the Treasury on his request, bonds bearing a rate of interest not less than the highest rates of interest paid by the American Government on its own bonds; that these foreign bonds shall mature at such dates as shall be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, and the entire debt must be liquidated not later than 1947. The terms are so clearly set forth in the various acts I have cited that they admit of no misinterpretation.

Interest Open to Discussion. The only question open to discussion is the settlement of the deferred and accrued interest. Inasmuch as the United States regularly on its own bonds regularly on the designated interest dates and only part of the interest on the foreign bonds has been paid, the American Government can equitably claim that the deferred interest shall be paid in cash instead of being included in the principal amount. But this is a matter of comparatively easy adjustment. The main fact as I have explained, is that there can be no demand made upon the British or any other Government for the repayment of the money borrowed for at least 17 to 26 years, unless the Queen or any other Government of its own volition makes earlier payment.

ROMANIA HAS BUSINESSLIKE QUEEN, SKILLED IN TRADING

Spends Much Time Ordering Goods and Planning Development of Country's Commerce.

SPECIAL CABLE TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
PARIS, Sept. 1.—Rumania's Queen has decidedly modern conceptions of her royal office, and if her country's trade and industry has been rapid it is due in large measure to Queen Marie's businesslike.

Although now enjoying a holiday from her duties, she devotes much time to seeing French manufacturers and engineers, ordering goods and planning further development of Rumanian trade, arts and crafts. Experts find this businesslike knowledge fully a match for them. Only the other day a manufacturer quoted her a price for a big quantity of cloth, and she replied promptly. Oh, I can do better than that, and, producing her little red note book, she confronted him with the latest New York prices, which were 10 per cent less. Queen Marie got her cloth at the reduced figure.

The Queen, who wants Bucharest to be a second Paris, has induced a number of silk manufacturers, chemists and other industrial experts to go to Rumania to set up industries there. She is also negotiating with Paris dressmakers with a view to opening branches in her capital.

British Writer on Aviation Gives His Views of Cause and Effect of the ZR-2 Disaster

He Asserts That the Best Monument to the Men Who Lost Their Lives Will Be the Building of Bigger and Better Airships.

By CHARLES G. GREY,
Editor of "Aeroplane."
(Copyright, 1921, by Press Pub. Co.—New York World.)

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Such accidents as happened to ZR-2 occurred in every branch of human progress. There comes a time in the development of all kinds of engineering when actual achievement is ahead of knowledge. Working engineers go on making things for theoreticians are struggling and trying to make calculations from insufficient or wrongly measured data. Their calculations may be absolutely correct, to a dozen places in decimals as far as arithmetic goes, but their figures are based on false premises, simply because new forces and strains arise which had not been met in previous structures of the kind.

The ZR-2 was the biggest and newest thing in airships in the world. Whoever says, as have some, that she was obsolete, is mistaken. She was so big and so new that she set up stresses and strains that could not have been calculated in advance.

Zeppelin Criticism Cited. It has been said that the Zeppelin design of 1914 increased its lift by 10 per cent, but the British "Far from that, the lift was actually improved by increasing the diameter of the airship without increasing the length, thus making her very 'tubby' for a big rigid airship. The effort was to get a better 'streamline' than could be obtained by long, narrow, parallel-sided ships.

Probably this big diameter set up serious air currents around the elevators and rudders which caused the ship to 'hunt,' as she did, certain speeds. 'Hunting' is an action which throws the nose or tail of a ship up, down or sideways, in spite of the fact that the ship is in equilibrium. It is a modern variant of the old 'streamline' design of the famous epitaph: 'If you seek their monument, look above.'

Streets of Moscow Are Safer and More Orderly Than Those in New York, Senator France Says

Trolley Cars Clean and Well Kept and Run Regularly, but Only Persons With Workers' Cards May Ride, He Finds.

By JOSEPH IRWIN FRANCE,
United States Senator From Maryland, Who Recently Has Returned From Russia.
(Copyright, 1921, by the Baltimore Sun.)

MOSCOW, July 2 (by mail).—We arrived in Moscow on time after a journey of 573 miles, evidence that the movement of trains in this part of Russia seems to be prompt and efficient in spite of most primitive and defective rolling stock. The fertile fields had extended to the very borders of the city, and within its confines were many well-tilled truck gardens. Our car was placed on a special siding, and in a moment I had met the interpreter with whom I was to be almost constantly for the next month. He was admirably qualified, for years before his father, then wealthy, had sent him to the United States for a part of his education.

In a few minutes we were passing swiftly through the quiet old Moscow streets to my temporary home, a handsome palace on the Moskva River, directly facing the Imperial Kremlin and the interesting old Kremlin. The Kremlin, with its palaces, the great bell tower of Ivan Veliki, the shining gold minarets, domes and ancient towered walls, is a symbol of Russia's history and, indeed, of the events which made the revolution necessary.

The Moscow of today fits quite well the description in a pre-revolution guidebook, with one important exception. Practically all the shops are closed, except the Government stores and those of a comparatively few small traders who have been able to begin business again.

Peddlers of small wares, cigarettes, sweets, berries and bread are in the streets. In the large, open markets, where the peasants buy and sell, clothing and other articles are to be had. While all forms of trade are now legal, the great majority of the people still get their supplies from the Government, principally at the places where they work. Few, except the old, the very young and the unemployed, go for supplies to the Government distributing stores on the business streets.

The trolley cars, very clean, well painted, modern and apparently new, run regularly, but in diminished numbers, as the power plant which furnishes both light and power to Moscow is now forced to burn wood. I had heard in America that the coal shortage in Russia is due to the fact that the miners and coal handlers would not work. Nothing could be further from the truth, as the labor of securing wood in sufficient quantities to run the power plants and industries of Russia, even on a part-time basis, is vastly greater than the labor which would be required to produce the coal. Probably Moscow is very little nearer to large supplies of wood than is Baltimore. Imagine what labor and transportation problems would be involved if we were forced to operate our power plants with wood, and soft wood at that.

Denikin Flooded Mines. There is sound reason for using wood. It is necessary. The dismantling and flooding of the Southern Russian coal mines by Denikin and those who operated with him was an attempt at sabotage and revenge designed to weaken and overthrow the present Government. Denikin was punished by the armies of Russia, but many of the mines in the rich Donetsk coal district are yet partly filled with water, although they have now been steadily under the pumps for more than 12 months. Moreover, these mines cannot be operated until machinery and supplies, not available in Russia, can be purchased.

The Donetsk region is most important, containing both bituminous and anthracite coal, as well as iron, over an area of 860 square miles. As Russia has never manufactured iron pipe, these cannot be repaired without importations, and many of the inhabitants of Moscow and other cities must carry water a long distance. This makes the problems of cleanliness, health and sanitation so much more difficult.

Moscow Streets Orderly. The streets of Moscow are orderly. Except for occasional unarmored soldiers strolling along with their rifles slung over their shoulders, there is no evidence that Russia has so recently been at war and is even now surrounded by enemies. There are but few signs of the late revolution like the marks of the machine-gun bullets on the facade of the old palace which from within the ancient Kremlin walls looks down on the Red Square. The stone scaffold and block, with the heavy chains which bound the victim, remain in the center of the square, as grim reminders of the terrible days of the Czars.

The streets of Moscow are, in fact, safer and more free from disorder than are those of New York. The people have certainly been on short, and what we would consider most meager, rations for some time, and yet they look well nourished and on the whole fairly well clad according to the Russian standards of dress, which, fortunately, are very simple. Many of the men, women and children are barefooted and a moderately well-dressed person is conspicuous. There is none who has a trolley as only one of the three Government officials with me had a

Activities of League Described in Letter From Member of Legal Staff of Secretariat in Geneva

Dr. Manley O. Hudson Expresses Belief Program Affords Interesting Commentary on Evolution of International Co-operation.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Current activities of the League of Nations are described in a letter received here from Manley O. Hudson, formerly a professor of law in the University of Missouri and now a member of the legal section of the permanent secretariat of the league, at Geneva.

The work of the league during the next two months, says Dr. Hudson, promises to be more interesting than during any other period since its establishment on Jan. 10, 1920. "The work of the permanent secretariat," he continues, "goes on through 52 weeks of the year and it is very varied and very extensive. Numerous commissions are always in existence under the league's auspices. To me, the interesting thing about all this work is that it merely represents the functioning of the league as a machine for the expression and effectuation of consent; throughout, no compulsion is exercised by any State. The league formulates measures, acting usually with unanimous agreement, but its measures do not bind any State against its will."

He expresses the belief that those who follow the work of the conference, held during the next two months will agree with him "that they afford an interesting commentary on the stage which we have at last reached in the evolution of international co-operation."

Dr. Hudson sends the following outline of the meetings and conferences on the league's calendar for September and October: "On Sept. 1 the Armaments Commission, set up by the Council of the League, will hold a second meeting. This commission met in Paris during July. It is conducting the preliminary studies and an investigation which will precede any sound attempt at reducing armaments over a long period of time. It is also studying the question of private manufacture of armaments, which is dealt with in the covenant, and the question of trade in armaments, which is dealt with in the recent international convention on that subject. Its work fits in very closely with that of President Harding's conference, which is expected to meet in Washington on Nov. 11."

Will Hold Third Session Sept. 1. "On Sept. 1 the Commission on American Trade in the Covenant will hold its third session at Geneva. This commission is to report to the Assembly on the various amendments which have been submitted to the League of Nations in the summer of 1920. It is proposed to study of article 10 by which it interprets the article as not involving any obligation to use armed force. It has also given a special interpretation to article 18 of the covenant concerning the registration of treaties. It will approve the Czechoslovak amendment authorizing the calling by the league of regional conferences to deal with regional problems and making clear the reference in the covenant to the Monroe Doctrine. A number of other small amendments to the covenant will be considered. On Sept. 1 also the Council of the League of Nations will hold its fourteenth meeting. The Council has a number of questions on its agenda, the most important being the Silesian question, which has been referred to the Council by the Prime Ministers of France, Great Britain, Italy, Belgium and the Ambassadors of the United States and Japan, who met as the Supreme Council of the allies in Paris. The problem is a very difficult one, which was not solved by the Supreme Council and with which the Council of the League will undoubtedly have difficulty. Usually, the League of Nations gets the difficult problems which cannot be solved by other agencies. "The Council will also consider the various measures which will be taken in preparation for the second assembly of the league. "It will have before it a draft of an international convention prohibiting traffic in women and children, prepared as a consequence of the resolutions of the white slave conference, which was held by the League of Nations during June, 1921."

Second Assembly Sept. 8. "On Sept. 8 the second assembly of the League of Nations will convene at Geneva. Representatives of the 48 members of the league will come together to consider the agenda, which is very varied and which contains altogether 12 items. In my opinion, the most important item on the agenda will be the election of Judges to the Permanent Court of International Justice. The establishment of this court is now practically assured. The ratifications of 28 states have already deposited their ratifications, including all the great Powers of Europe, and six or seven others have taken preliminary action which promises to result in the deposit of ratifications before Sept. 8. There is no doubt any longer in the minds of the people here (at Geneva) that the court will be established by the Assembly. It is possible, however, that it will be elected as Judge, Mr. Elihu Root has been nominated by Brazil, Bolivia and Venezuela, and Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard has been nominated by the United States."

Election of New Members. "The Assembly will also consider the election of new members. Both Hungary and Estonia are applying for membership. "During September we expect the conference to be held for drawing up the treaty neutralizing the Åland Islands. This treaty will mark the completion of the settlement of the dispute between Finland and Sweden with reference to the Åland Islands, which was referred to the League of Nations in the summer of 1920. All of the Baltic states will be represented at the conference. "On Oct. 25 the third international labor conference will assemble at Geneva. The international labor organization now has 49 members, including Germany. Each member sends two Government delegates, one employers' delegate and one workers' delegate. The previous conferences were held at Washington in 1919, and at Geneva in 1920. The six labor conventions, adopted at Washington in 1919, have now come into effect. Ratifications of some or all of them have been received from Great Britain, Greece, Rumania, India and Czechoslovakia."

HEARINGS IN OUSTER SUIT WILL COMMENCE SEPT. 9

Date of Proceedings Against Material Concerns Announced by Attorney-General.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 1.—Examination of witnesses in the ouster suit against the St. Louis Lumber Trade Exchange and a number of the firms composing it will begin here Sept. 9, the Attorney General's office announced today.

The suit, filed in the Supreme Court several weeks ago by the Attorney General, charges that the exchange and the firms which composed it violated the State antitrust laws. Hearings in this case will be before Dorsey W. Shackelford of Jefferson City, former Congressman from the Eighth District and appointed by the Supreme Court as Commissioner to take testimony. One of the Supreme Court rooms probably will be used for the hearings, some of which later may be held in St. Louis.

Two other ouster suits against building material men in St. Louis are pending in the Supreme Court, one against the St. Louis Plaster Millmen's Association, and one against the St. Louis Material Dealers' Association.

CHARGES ROADS HAVE COVERED UP PROFITS

Kansas Assets 19 Lines Have Put $200,000,000 in Depreciation Fund.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Western railroads by expansion of reserve accounts and the setting up of exorbitant depreciation charges against their properties, have concluded profits amounting to nearly $200,000,000, Clyde M. Reed, chairman of the Kansas Public Utilities Commission and spokesman for the Western grain men in their attempts to get reduced railroad rates, testified today before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Profits Greatest in History.

On the basis of an analysis of the accounting returns of 19 railroads in the West, operating 85,055 miles of track, or 68 per cent of the mileage of the Western district, Reed asserted that their profits during 1920, which, he said, generally had been considered insufficient to meet the Government guarantee of their earning power, in fact, had been the greatest in their history. He charged that propaganda in favor of maintenance of transportation rates had misled not only public opinion, but also the official bodies charged with the duties of regulating rates.

The profits of the 19 railroads as shown by their official reports were $987,824,470 in 1920, Reed said, while in 1915, the best year previously recorded, he added, they amounted to $528,717,753. In addition to this the roads held on Dec. 31, 1920, he continued, $289,000,000 as a reserve for "accrued depreciation of equipment." In 1915 the total reserve so held was $144,934,362, he said, adding that the roads in 1920 had added to the fund $45,000,000, which was carried as "operating expenditure."

More in Operating Fund.

A further example, he said, was an "operating reserve account," which amounted to $38,111,445 in 1920, while in 1915 the fund was $3,733,581.

These amounts were set aside from railroad earnings, Reed said, notwithstanding that the normal expenditures were made upon maintenance of equipment and road bed. Producing statistics as to the amount of work done, he asserted that there had been no failure to provide usual maintenance.

Among the roads included in the summary were the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe, the Chicago & Rock Island, the Great Northern, the Minneapolis & St. Louis, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and the Chicago & Great Western.

Able to Decrease Grain Rates.

The compilation, Reed said, could be considered as indicative of the conditions prevailing on the 32 per cent of western mileage left out. It demonstrated, he added, that the roads were amply able to put into effect the decreased rates on grain for which representatives of 20 western states are asking.

COMMISSION MAN REPORTS $580 ROBBERY AT GARAGE

Says He Was Held Up When Taking Out His Machine at 3:15 A. M.

Daniel Pupillo, commission merchant and caterer, residing at 4755 St. Louis avenue, reported to the police today that at 3:15 a. m., when he went to his garage in the rear of his home to take out his automobile to buy produce, he was held up and robbed of $580 cash and $60 in checks.

When he neared the garage, he said, he was confronted by two armed men, who made him back against the garage wall while they searched his pockets and took the cash and checks. The money was insured.

Suit$9,322,075 FROM U. S.
FOR MISSOURI ROADS

1600 Miles of Proposed Highways in State Approved by Federal Board.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 1.—Approximately 1600 miles of hard surfaced road projects, representing an estimated cost of $20,162,451.03, have been approved by the Federal board and recommended for construction in Missouri under the Federal aid law, according to information contained in a bulletin issued today by the State Highway Department. Missouri has been allotted the largest amount of Federal aid in road construction of any of the four states in the Fifth Federal aid district, composed of Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska. The State's allotment, according to the bulletin received from district headquarters at Omaha, is $9,322,075.71.

Although Missouri ranks below Kansas and Iowa in the number of projects under construction at the present time, the projects under contract and the projects completed, the State will stand with the highest in total aid, according to Alex Graham, State Highway Engineer. The cause for Missouri's Federal aid projects not being so far along at the present time, according to Graham, is that the building of such roads in Missouri is more difficult because of streams, dills and hills, with which the other three states have very little difficulty.

The estimated cost of Federal aid projects already approved by the Federal board for Missouri is more than $20,000,000. The cost of projects now under contract will be $14,746,258.17, while the cost of projects completed totals $321,474.15.

The standing of the states in District No. 5 in the Federal aid work is shown in the following:

Missouri $9,322,075.71
Iowa 7,359,343.14
Kansas 7,359,343.14
Nebraska 8,866,761.66

Federal aid approved:
Kansas $13,547,510.83
Iowa 20,607,593.61
Missouri 20,162,451.03
Nebraska 12,216,385.53

Projects under contract:

ATHENS REPORTS TURKS HAVE GIVEN WAY AND ARE IN RETREAT

Greeks are in Close Pursuit and Declare Resurgence of Enemy is Broken.

By the Associated Press.
ATHENS, Sept. 1.—The official silence was broken yesterday by a communique announcing that after seven days' desperate fighting on strongly fortified heights north of the rivers Gheuk and Katrandji—on a line 60 kilometers in extent—the Turks have given way and have begun a retreat to the northeast. The Greek troops are in close pursuit.

Another communication given out by the Official News Agency says that, according to the war correspondents, "the resistance of the enemy is broken."

"It is declared from an authoritative source," adds the statement, "that the operations are developing in our favor and successfully. All Turkish reports concerning their pretended victories are unfounded."

OPERA SINGER WHO SANG WITH CARUSO 6 SEASONS NEAR DEATH

Miss Elizabeth Parkinson of Kansas City Is in Sanatorium at Colorado Springs.

By the Associated Press.
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Sept. 1.—Miss Elizabeth Parkinson of Kansas City, former grand opera singer and who sang with the late Enrico Caruso for six seasons at Covent Garden, in London, is said by physicians to be near death at a sanatorium here. Her brother, Philip P. Parkinson, superintendent of the Western Power Co. of Durango, Colo., and her sister, Mrs. Henry C. Rowland, wife of the writer, arrived here yesterday to be with her. While on the stage Miss Parkinson was known as "Parkina." Her premiere was in Paris, where she was introduced by Mme. Melba. Miss Parkinson came here some time ago, her health broken by overwork. For a time she showed improvement, but three days ago she grew worse.

Two to three hours soaking loosens all the dirt

-just rinse and the clothes are ready for the line

NO more of the back-breaking rubbing that used to leave you utterly exhausted after washday.

Rinso is the new soap product that loosens and dissolves the dirt from—even the heaviest pieces of the weekly wash. It gets the clothes sweet and clean without injury to a single fabric. You don't have to rub anything but the very soiled spots such as neck-bands and cuffs, and those just lightly.

Don't rub your youth away. Get Rinso today from your grocer or any department store. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Perfect in washing machines

With Rinso you don't have to do any rubbing. Follow regular directions given here. Soak the clothes. Then, before operating the machine, add a fresh Rinso solution, using the same amount of Rinso as you used for soaking. No other product is needed when Rinso is used.

DISOLVE. For each tub of clothes thoroughly dissolve a half package of Rinso in two quarts of boiling water. When water is hard or clothes extra dirty use more Rinso.

POUR INTO TUB of tubs of lukewarm water—mix well. Keep adding the solution until you get a good, rich, lasting, soapy suds, even after the clothes have been put in.

Rinso

Then let your clothes soak and rinse without any hard rubbing. Soak one hour—two hours—convenient whatever time is convenient. Then wonderful mild suds loosen every particle of dirt. Rinso, to remove the loosened dirt, all water runs clear.

Read from
The Autobiography of THEODORE ROOSEVELT
"IT WAS this summer that I got my first gun, and it puzzled me to find that my companions seemed to see things to shoot at which I could not see at all. One day they read aloud an advertisement in huge letters on a distant billboard and I then realized that something was the matter, for not only was I unable to read the sign, but I could not even see the letters. I spoke of this to my father, and soon afterwards got my first pair of spectacles, which literally opened an entirely new world to me. I had no idea how beautiful the world was until I got those spectacles. I had been a clumsy and awkward little boy, and, while much of my clumsiness and awkwardness was doubtless due to general characteristics, a good deal of it was due to the fact that I could not see, and yet was wholly ignorant that I was not seeing. The recollection of this experience gives me a keen sympathy and desire to remove the physical causes of deficiency in children, who are often unjustly blamed for being obstinate or unambitious or mentally stupid."

Illinois Central System Shows How Taxes Have a Bearing on Railway Rates

Notwithstanding that for the past twelve months the railroads as a whole have earned almost no net return on the capital invested in them, many persons insist that freight and passenger rates be reduced, regardless of the costs of producing that transportation service which the public must have. We wish, therefore, to direct attention to the fact that the costs of producing transportation are still relatively much higher than the rates. We think it fair to ask the public to give consideration to what the railroads are having to pay for labor, materials, locomotives, fuel, cars, taxes and interest on borrowed capital before passing final judgment upon the reasonableness of present freight and passenger rates.

It is true that, effective July 1, railway wages were reduced 12 per cent, but they are still 108 per cent higher than they were in 1914—the year of the beginning of the great war which upset everything. Road locomotives cost 123 per cent more, switch engines cost 144 per cent more, gondola cars cost 117 per cent more, refrigerator cars cost 107 per cent more, box cars cost 122 per cent more, steel passenger coaches cost 100 per cent more and locomotive fuel costs 138 per cent more at present than in 1914. The Illinois Central System sold bonds in 1914 on a basis yielding less than 5 per cent to the purchasers. It recently sold $8,000,000 of bonds running for fifteen years, and the best terms it was able to secure yielded a return of more than 7 per cent to the purchasers.

Take the single item of direct taxes for a ten-year period. The Class I railroads, which include all railroads having gross operating incomes of $1,000,000 or more annually, paid $98,626,848 in taxes in 1911. In 1920 the same railroads paid $278,868,668 in taxes, an increase of $180,241,820, or 183 per cent.

The Illinois Central System paid $3,278,107.96 in taxes in 1911, while in 1920 it paid $9,575,680.87, an increase of $6,297,572.91, or 192 per cent.

But these are not the only taxes affecting transportation charges. When the shipper pays his freight bill, he should remember that 3 per cent of what the railroad's bill otherwise would be is added and collected by the railroad as a transportation tax. Likewise, when the passenger pays for his ticket, he should remember that 8 per cent of what he otherwise would pay for the railroad is added and collected for the Government as a transportation tax. Patrons generally consider only the total cost of freight and passenger transportation, and many think the railroads get the whole amount.

The transportation tax collected by the railroads for the Government on freight bills in 1920 totaled $129,710,329.80, and on passenger fares, $103,099,633.36—a grand total of $232,809,963.16! This vast sum is not included in any of the railway accounts. It was collected by the railroads acting as agents for the Government and remitted directly to the Government.

As the agent of the Government the Illinois Central System collected from its patrons in 1920 the sum of $3,084,072.54 as transportation tax on freight, and $2,254,256.87 as transportation tax on passenger fares, a total of $5,338,329.41! This is not included in the above mentioned item of $9,575,680.87 direct taxes paid, but was collected and remitted directly to the Government.

The question of abolishing the transportation tax is having consideration at Washington. The abolition of this tax would reduce railway rates without injury to the railroads.

We do not bring up the question of railway taxation in a spirit of complaint. We realize that all citizens and all businesses must bear their just proportion of the expense of Government. We refer to the matter just now to make it clear that railway taxation must be added to the cost of transportation and necessarily has a bearing on freight and passenger rates.

The Illinois Central System has been striving for more than a year to present facts in regard to railway problems for the consideration of the public. The public will be able to decide for itself the advisability of such a course when it considers that the management of the Illinois Central System is the trustee of an investment in roadway and equipment of more than a half billion dollars. We realize that this property, and all railway property, will be dealt with accordingly as public sentiment develops and crystallizes. We feel, therefore, that we must present our case before the court of public opinion, and we are glad to do that, having an abiding faith in the fairness and justice of the people when they have the facts before them.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

O. H. MARKHAM,
President, Illinois Central System.

SOCIETY WOMAN FACING CHARGE OF TRYING TO KILL HUSBAND

Complainant Alleges She Fired at Him From Auto of Real Estate Man.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Mrs. James Martin, 34, well-known society woman, and Joseph Battersby, 34, estate man, today face trial on charges preferred by Mrs. Martin's husband. He accuses his wife of firing a shot at him from an automobile as he stood on a street corner a few days ago, and alleges that Battersby turned the spotlight of the machine on him. Previously

Martin filed suit to annul the marriage on the ground that Mrs. Martin had not been divorced the proper length of time when the ceremony was performed. She countered with a breach of promise suit to compel him to marry her. Both actions later were dropped.

Funeral of Veteran Organist.

Boettcher, who was for nearly 20 years organist and choirmaster of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, Nineteenth street and Newhouse avenue, was held from the church this afternoon. He died of Bright's disease Monday, aged 51 years. He leaves a wife and five children, two of whom are married.

DEATH OF I. C. MUCKERMANN FOUND DUE TO HEMORRHAGE

Deputy Coroner Announces President of Polar Wave Co. Expired of Natural Causes.

The death of Ignatius C. Muckermann, 5049 Raymond avenue, president of the Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co., was today declared to have been due to natural causes, in a verdict rendered by Deputy Coroner Path. An autopsy showed that a hemorrhage had occurred from a ruptured aneurism of the aorta.

Muckermann's body was found by his wife, Mrs. Lena Muckermann, at 5 a. m. yesterday in the bathroom, according to the statement made to the coroner by John C. Muckermann of 4464 West Pine boulevard, a brother, who is vice president of the Polar Wave Co. Another brother, Christopher Muckermann, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter at the house yesterday that he was found dead in bed.

The funeral will take place Saturday morning at St. Mark's Catholic Church, Page boulevard and Academy avenue, followed by interment in Calvary cemetery. Four children survive Muckermann, the oldest son, Richard, being married.

Tomorrow — a 7-passenger Westcott for

~~$2990~~
$2090

No course of reasoning could lead a wise car owner to purchase a smaller or less powerful car at this time—when he can get a car of Westcott quality at such prices as go into effect tomorrow. The luxurious 7-passenger Westcott, for instance, which has been selling recently for $2990 and a year ago was $3190, will (beginning tomorrow) be priced at $2090. The smart 5-passenger touring, which was $2690, will be $1890. Other models reduced proportionately. While the quality and completeness of the Westcott have not been cut a penny, the reductions as against last year's prices will range all the way up to $1300.

All War Increases Wiped Out
Westcott has gone at the task of lowering costs with determination. The object has been at any sacrifice to reach, promptly, a stable and satisfactory level of prices. This has been done by anticipating the lowered parts-costs, which will not actually be in effect until 1922.

The reductions here announced amount to as much as the increases which we were forced to make during the entire three years preceding! The Westcott can be purchased now at rock-bottom prices, and your investment is therefore protected and made safe against future variations in the market!

Regardless of price, the Westcott is a car you will enjoy. As it stands at your curb, it will be admired by all who see it. Distinction stands out in every line! The closer your inspection, the more will be revealed to be proud of. For the Westcott is right in detail, as it is right in design.

What a Car!

It climbs hills—pulls through sand and mud—handles in traffic—and in fact performs under all circumstances with an ease that is astonishing to those who drive the car for the first time.

In addition to containing nationally known units, such as Continental, Timken, Delco, Brown-Lipe, Borg & Beck, Willard, Warner, Fedders and Gemmer, it is equipped with every convenience that could add to the pleasure of its occupants.

It has thermostatically controlled motor temperature, radiator, clock, bumper, spotlight-socket, windshield cleaner, gas gauge on dash, cowl ventilator, cigar lighter, tonneau light, etc. Nothing has been spared that will make the Westcott a car of longer life, and of more genuine satisfaction during all the years of its long life.

Try It! Buy It!

At the few prices, the Westcott deserves every consideration at the hands of the most careful buyer. A phone call or a visit to our show room tomorrow will put you under no obligation, and we shall very gladly place a Westcott at your disposal for examination, trial or comparison as you may desire.

local market opened steady at a decline of two points on October, but generally 2 to 15 points higher. There was some further scattering liquidation for over the Government report due at noon, but the offerings were quite readily absorbed by covering and New Orleans, Wall Street and trade buying. October sold up to 16.25c and January to 16.45c before the end of the first hour, with active months generally showing net advances of 16 to 20 points. Liverpool attributed steadiness there to a better Manchester demand and small offerings from the South.

The market showed increasing firmness
as the hour for the Government report approached and when the figures were published making the condition only 49.3 and the indicated crop 7,037,000 bales, there was a general rush to the bid and 17c above the previous level. The only point of note was a recovery of 1c yesterday's advance. The month's record for the season. Every month since the 1st of July has been above the previous month's record. The condition at 49.3 was far the lowest since the beginning of the season and indicated more than double the average falling off in crop production.

The bullish effect of the seasonally low crop indications was countered by the report of the bureau reviewing the cause of the low condition. The buying movement continued full of interest. The market was active with prices showing an advance of 14 to 16 points as compared with the afternoon closing figures. December sold at 17.91c, and a pound above the previous low point of yesterday.

Uncommon Sense

Take Stock of Your Resources

It is not necessary for men of to-day to know how to go about the business of keeping alive if they happen to be cast away on a desert island. The possibility that you, for example, will ever be cast away on a desert island is extremely remote. You would take a long time to get to the island, and you would not be able to strike fire by rubbing sticks together, or to grind corn and make flour by pounding one stone with another.

If you feel that your incomplete knowledge of these things would endanger your life if you were cast away, you can always keep from being cast away by staying ashore.

You are, however, likely to find yourself in tight places, not once, but many times.

And upon your resourcefulness will depend your successful escape from them.

It pays everyone now and then to take stock of his resources.

For example, if you were suddenly left in charge of the office or mill or factory or farm where you are now employed, how would you go about the job?

You may not have thought of that, but if you ever do have to stand in of it you will have to think quickly, or you will lose a great opportunity.

Why not think of it now, while there is plenty of time? Why not watch the man who has the job, and see how he conducts it, making (always to yourself) suggestions that you think would be improving.

Then if you happen to be left in charge you will at least have a plan of procedure, and a good plan is half success.

As you think what you would do in a pinch, you will find that some of your present position.

WHAT TO DO WITH PEARS

Baked Pears.

WASH, cut in half and remove seeds. Put in a pan with sugar and water and bake in slow oven until done. Baste with syrup while baking. Serve with cream.

Pear Pie.

Put half a pound ginger in bag (or it may be used without), and put this into a saucepan with one cup of water. Add grated rinds of three oranges and two small lemons. Cook until flavor is satisfactory to taste, then add six pounds of pears, sliced. Sprinkle with sugar. Either cover with pastry or let them brown in oven.

WHERE DID YOU GET THAT WORD?

CULL.

THE verb "to cull" is a close kin to the Latin "colligo" (I collect). It means to pick out.

Just as the things picked out for the reason for the mass are called "pick," so things "culled" are sometimes spoken of as the "cull."

It must not be assumed, however, that the "cull" necessarily means a choice of the good qualities. It may mean objects "culled" for their bad or inferior qualities.

The verb has a remarkably large number of relatives in many languages. For instance, French "cueiller" means "to pick," Italian "cogliere" means "to pick," Spanish "coger" means "to pick."

FOURTH INSTALLMENT.

THE American had made his first point. He had gained time in the Robinson-Ray people had recognized a new factor in the field. When he was again in the Director-General's room, the latter said:

"I think I will have you formulate a new bid along the lines you have laid down."

"Very well."

"You understand, our time is up. Can you have it ready by Saturday, three days from now?"

Mitchell laughed. "It's a 10-days job for two men."

"I know, but we can't wait."

"Then give me until Tuesday; I'm used to a 24-hour shift now. Meanwhile I'd like to leave figures here for your chief draftsman to examine. Of course they are not to be considered binding."

"Isn't that a bit—foolish?" inquired Peebley. "Are you leaving a weapon behind you?"

"Yes, but not the sort of a weapon you suspect," thought Mitchell. "This is a boomerang. I don't know what it will do, but I think I'll camp with my bid."

Louis smiled and shook his head. "I can't take that Exposition back with me, and I can take this contract. I think I'll camp with my bid."

For several days after that little party, blue-printing in the Robinson-Ray office was a lost art. When his guests had dined and had settled back into their chairs, Mitchell decided to risk all upon one throw. He rose, at the head of the table, and told them who he was. He utterly destroyed their illusions regarding him and his position with Comer & Mathison. He bared his heart to those shop-shouldered, shabby young men from Threadneedle street and came right down to the $250 and the girl. He told them what this Krugersdorff job meant to him and to her, and the four $25 bills in Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

Those Englishmen listened silently. Nobody laughed. Perhaps it was the sort of thing they had dreamed of doing some day, perhaps there were other girls in other tiny furnished flats, other hearts wrapped up in similar struggles for advancement. They were good mathematicians, it seemed, for they did not have to ask Mitchell how the $250 was doing, or to inquire regarding the health of the other $80. One of them, a near-sighted fellow with thick lenses, arose with the grave assertion that he had taken the floor for the purpose of correcting a popular fallacy: Englishmen and Yankees, he declared, were not cousins. They were brothers, and their interests ever had been and ever would be identical.

What to Wear.

When and Where

By MILDRED LODIEWICK.

SLOWLY the season drifts along. Migration from favorite summer resorts is beginning to be noticeable through the increased number of pedestrians along the streets. For the first time a woman does upon returning to town, is to visit the shopping center and become acquainted with what other women are wearing and what new and smart things Dame Fashion is offering.

She will see nine women out of ten wearing black, the material being Canton crepe or the heavier Roshara crepe in most instances, which is seldom relieved by anything to distinguish it from strictly mourning attire. The newest models have long and wide sleeves with cape attachments or flowing bits of drapery at the back or sides of the frock. These are untrimmed and finished with a band of white or like tassels over the plect. Few necks have collars, though a touch of white is frequently introduced by means of a pearl necklace. And somehow or other these simple frocks, whose individuality is lacking, are made to stand out.

On one model I saw a novel interpretation of a tasseled trimming. Five-inch squares of the dress fabric, plectored, were gathered with a heading across one edge and attached here and there like tassels over the surface of the skirt. On another frock distinction was gained by a yoke made of tiny bias folds of satin formed into a pretty lattice work. A banding of this same open lattice work trimmed another frock down the left side, with a band of gray Georgette laid underneath.

Gloves have not become ubiquitous as yet, those in the city still clinging to that delightful informality which comes but once a year, though with light summer frocks at the Saratoga races I noted many long black kid gloves.

The veil is more popular than it has been for many a day, having stepped from the low degree of utility to that of ornamentation. Instead of dropping over the face from the front of a hat, it drops over the shoulders from the back, or trails languorously over one ear. Most of such veils are of silk lace, delicately patterned, but novelty is revealed in some which are appliqued with elze ribbon, chenille or jet beads. For the face, however, I saw one charming matron wearing a veil that enhanced her features, and the young man, a middle-aged man, wore a wide square mesh of delicate black, holding huge

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Striped Chipmunk Is Mourned.

NEVER will the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows forget that great storm. Never will the little folk of the Old Orchard forget it. It seemed as if Old Mother Nature had done her best to show how great is her strength. Some of the little feathered folk were nearly drowned by the great rain. Some were so beaten by the wind that they were bruised and sore all over.

Peter Rabbit, over in the dear Old Briar Patch, had sought shelter in an old house of Grandfather Chuck's in the very middle of the Old Briar Patch, and there he and Little Mrs. Peter had minded the storm not at all until Peter discovered that his feet were wet. Then they found that water was running down the long hall into the old house underground. So water was standing on the surface and some of this was running down around their feet. It made them nervous and uncomfortable. Never had such a thing happened before.

"It must be a terrible storm," said Peter.

Little Mrs. Peter nestled close to him. "I'm so glad you are here, Peter," she whispered. "If you were off somewhere I would be worried to death."

Just as soon as the storm was over Peter was out, eager to see or hear what had happened during the storm. The first thing he discovered was that much of Farmer Brown's corn had been beaten down-flat.

"My, my, my," exclaimed Peter. "Then, the way being clear, he ran over to the Smiling Pool. Peter's eyes opened very wide when he came in sight of the Smiling Pool. It was doing its best to smile, but it was too muddy to make that smile a success. And the Smiling Pool had grown! My, how it had grown! It was filled to the very top of its banks. No big, green lily pads for Grandfather Frog munched."

PAGING OLD ACQUAINTANCES.

Where's the chap who used to say that there would come a time some day When he'd eschew the bubbling brew That held him in its clutches, And, being able to abstain from liquor which benumbed his brain And chilled his soul, he'd gain the goal That only greatness touches?

He's kept a portion of his vow; he isn't drinking any now And yet his mind is not inclined Toward any high endeavor. At prohibition rates for booze he simply can't afford to use Beer, gin or fliz, and yet he is The same old bum as ever!

Where's the man of whom 'twas said that the besotted life he led Obscured his fame and kept the flame Of mighty genius hidden. The man his friends proclaimed would rise and write his name across the skies In brave array when dawned the day That liquor was forbidden?

For him the liquor ceased to flow on July First, two years ago. Upon said more J. Barleycorn And our young hero perked. He is not handicapped a bit because he's jingled, corned or lit. But if his aim is still for fame He'd best be getting started.
